the 1956 Anaga

The 1956 ANAGA is a candid record of another year's activities at Bradley. In many respects it is typical of college yearbooks all over the nation and encompasses the same scholastic and social ideas that form the structure of university life. It recreates the carefully cultivated beginning and satisfying end results of four or more years of education. The staff of this publication, however, believes that this book differs from others in the respect that it presents a composite view of the spontaneous and realistic happenings that join together to make up the larger functions of the university.

Bradley, like any other school of higher learning, contains in its calendar year certain prescribed and traditional events. Although these events are the mainspring of campus interest, they serve only to reflect the countless situations that bring them into being.

It is the purpose of this book to present a graphic and genuine account of these situations—to capture for recapitulation in the 1956 ANAGA, the personal and significant moments that this University is made of.

And so it is to the individual and the small incidents fostered by his originality—the 1956 ANAGA is dedicated.

First a dream . . .

Now a reality . . . our new engineering building

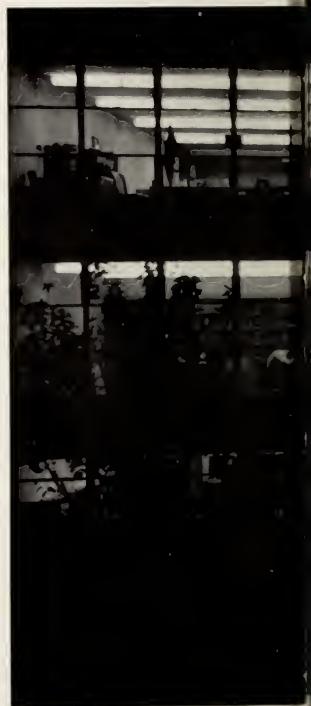

The Men's Dormitory exemplifies our new architecture . . .

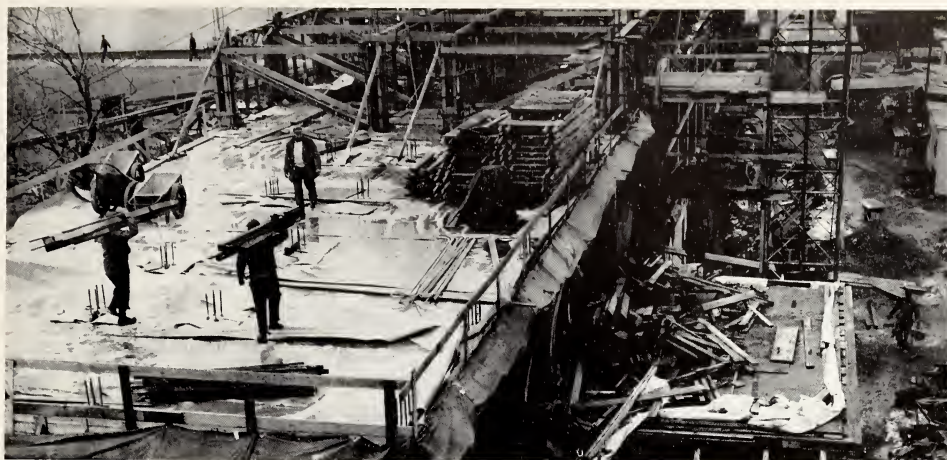

. . . while Siepert Hall reminds us of a bygone day.

The Teepee . . . today a reality, tomorrow a memory

More girls . . . less parking space . . . the new women's dormitory.

The pool of knowledge, where so many have slipped . . . the library.

The shelves have been dusted, the inkwell is full, the desk is occupied. The president's office is again in use. The ghost town atmosphere, which prevailed over the room for more than a year, disappeared when Dr. Harold Potter Rodes brought his efficient leadership to it.

This man is one of the youngest university presidents in America. He, his wife and children have taken their places as the head of the Bradley family.

In two short years, Dr. Rodes has come to be known and respected by all of us. His capabilities have shown forth and his ideas reach into the future for a better Bradley.

His presence is a warming inspiration that had nearly died out . . . it brings us out of a stagnant pool into a new era. . . .

A small shovel starts a big building . . . the new dorm.

B. U. policy in the making

Dr. Rodes takes over the helm.

The era of uncertainty has ended . . . an era of confidence begins.

Bradley's first family

HARPER HALL

Behind every successful venture there are many components. And so it is at Bradley . . . behind every big event there is a multitude of little events working together—successfully or unsuccessfully—to make the end production. Cooperation is the key-word; without it, the integration of small events would never occur to result in even one successful big event.

How much planning is there to laying out the beds of perennial flowers scattered about our campus?

Who borrowed (or bought) the Indian in the TePee?

And when there isn't any, where is the heat to come from?

Is it Orchesis or lettermen doing all the antics on the practice field?

Some of the things that make Bradley the great school it is will never be known to us, nor will we realize what they are. But briefly, take a look at some of those small events, of which little note is taken.

A new view of Bradley Hall

And then there was light on Institute.

. . . Patterns in shadows . . .

"Holiday on Ice" was a holiday away from the usual chapel fare.

Watermelon after convocation

Spring, a blanket, food . . . a picnic

Food a la Connie Hall

A subject dear to our hearts as well as our budgets is food. Here on campus we have our trials when it comes to procuring such rare delicacies as hamburgers and coke. For some of us, the problem is a small one. For the girls who eat at Connie or those who eat at fraternity and sorority houses, there is only the task of arriving on time. But for the rest of us, the decision of where to eat presents a somewhat unhappy situation. We can go downtown and spend the rest of the week eating one meal a day, or we can patronize our local food establishments—the TePee, the Wigwam and the Huddle. And if we get too hungry, we can always write home for goodies.

Good odors always drift from Winchip House.

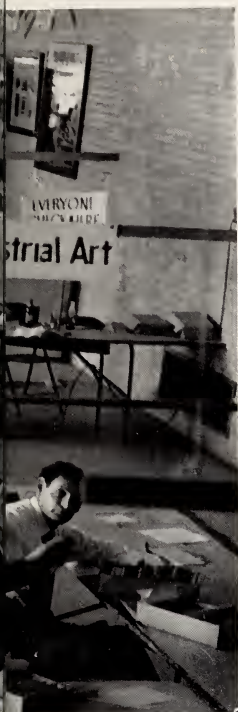

The oldest student at Bradley

Many cups of coffee . . . courageous students . . . perplexed advisors . . . registration

Easily a close second to finals in inducing once enthusiastic students to forget it all at Si's, is registration. Emotions of frustration and despair are seen on the faces of even the most sophisticated of sophisticates, the senior. His agonized look when he is told that he must get that General Studies credit to graduate is met only by the blank stares of the freshmen, whose befuddled notions of college curricula are further confused by their counselors. The huge Fieldhouse, especially as seen through the eyes of the unfortunates who register late, never looked so dismal, even to Bob Vanatta.

Amid knowledge . . . shoe strings, bobby pins and beer mugs . . . our book store.

Registration is over . . . only this remains.

From many colleges and universities come the contestants for our annual Speech Tournament.

The beginning of the year is filled with pressing duties and social events. Some students let classes come second to their extra-curricular activities, but after one becomes adjusted, he learns there is time for everything.

For the first few weeks there is a swirl of rushing parties for social fraternities and sororities. After the difficult choices are made, many students busy themselves with work on such projects as the Speech Tournament, one of the largest in the nation.

The Independents planned many social events throughout the year. One of the highlights was a dance in the "B" Park Pavilion.

The inspected approach the inspectors . . .
sorority rush.

No house . . . the Indees still organize for occasional social affairs.

Classes become informal on spring days.

Dorm roofs are popular sunning places.

Reverie and reflections over a laundry tub.

To coin an old phrase, "Spring activities come in like a lion and go out like a lamb." The students are eager to rush in the warm season with parties and social gatherings outside in the bright spring air.

After being cooped up for months in stuffy dormitories, the relief of being free to relax out of doors becomes a craze from one end of campus to the other. Sorority and dormitory roofs are swept and cleaned up for sun-bathing in the afternoons. Myriad bushes, trees and ornamental flower beds burst into bloom, heralding the arrival of "cotton clothes" weather.

Bradley Park accommodates the throng which comes to her green acreage to release the stored up energy of a long winter season.

When June finally rolls around, a new calmness has pervaded the campus only because final exams have squelched the party mood.

Spirits are sometimes dampened on sunny days.

Tulips and umbrellas bring color and a country club appearance to the library.

Diversions from regular classroom schedules are never at a minimum.

Besides dances, parties and informal get-togethers, there are always a number of clubs and organizations in which one can find time to participate.

This year, several Bradley students entered the Peoria Golden Gloves Tournament for the first time. Under Coach Bill Zimmer, we finished a strong second.

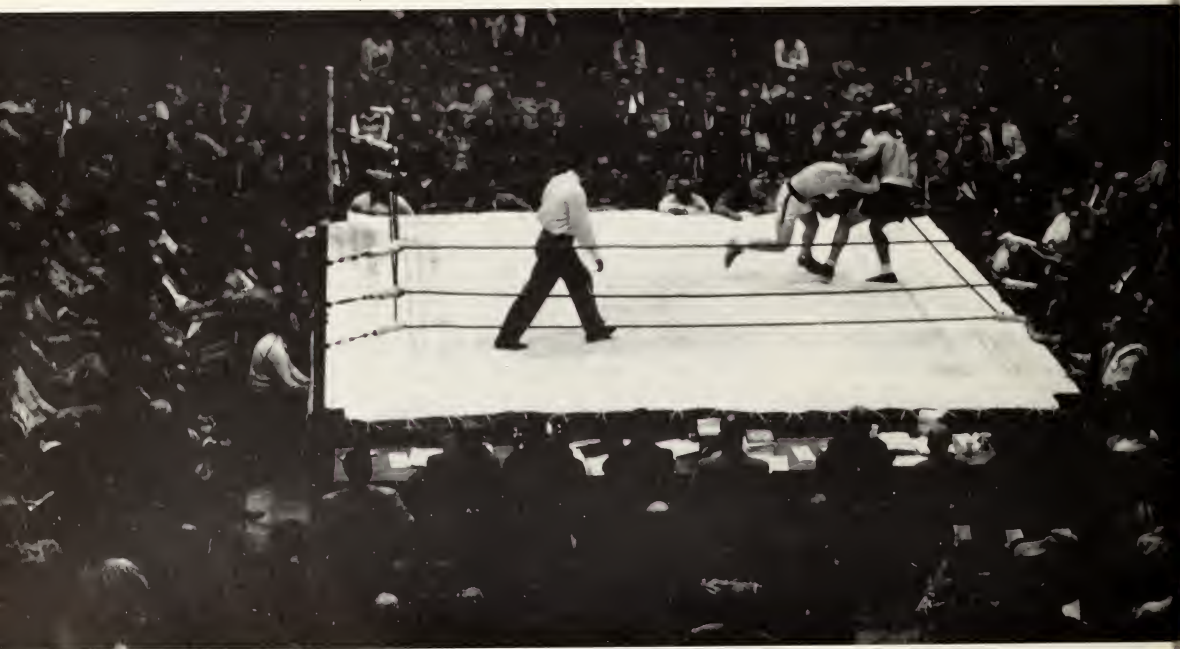

The commerce students on campus have formed a professional business fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi, which promotes scholarship and contacts in the commerce department along with a few social activities throughout the year.

Situated next to Bradley Hall, is one of our many claims to fame, one of the largest Horology Schools in the nation. Seeming to lead a life of their own, the horology students diligently learn their trade.

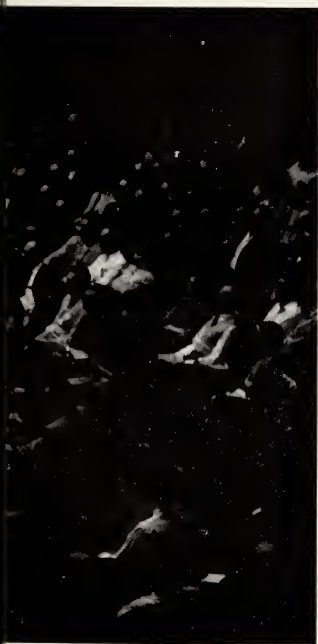

. . . And some days are like this.

Punches in bunches, Bradley students entered the Golden Gloves.

Time on their hands . . . the future of our Elgins . . . the horology lab.

We thought all the AKPsis were business majors, but it looks like some have been getting pointers at Winchip House.

Even though most little events build up to that climax . . . the big event, some small events follow the big ones as a kind of anti-climax, are the most fun and more memorable.

When the rushee goes through fraternity rush, he doesn't realize he'll be building a gigantic float, which can be time-consuming and fun-packed.

When the fraternity man goes to a dance, he sometimes returns home minus his pin, which results in tortures from his brothers.

The fans at football games are there primarily to see the game, but the majorettes offer a refreshing few moments at half-time.

Weeks of work and planning torn apart in minutes.

A lot can be learned in a handshake, a smile or small talk to the inspectors . . . this is fraternity rush.

Nancy Raber, Marlyn Sitton, Patricia Foster and Joanne Thieme . . . Bradley's strutting foursome.

The wages one must pay for giving away his pin!

A chance for another queen and the sisters vote in a block . . . the Confederate Ball.

Election day . . . students take a break between classes to have a smoke and discuss candidates.

Many important and likewise insignificant parts are needed to complete something big.

Elections would not seem complete without the myriad of posters and eventual pin-up pictures which decorate the open spaces on campus.

Dad's Day, which has become one of the few important traditions on Bradley's campus, has its important highlight, the honoring of the football team's Dads during half-time at the game.

The gathering of the learned and the scholarly before the Founder's Day Convocation procession is an old and interesting sight.

These things are looked forward to each year and have become accepted as a way of life at Bradley.

"Pop" is king of the campus on Dad's Day.

The hierarchy of scholardom lines up for the Founder's Day Processional.

Two alums return for Homecoming. Pa says, "Ma, this sure is a great Homecoming."

That rare, solemn minute between Fieldhouse engagements.

Another basketball season is finished . . . the floor is torn down . . . the Fieldhouse is quiet for awhile.

Probably there is no place in the world that has the variety of users that our Fieldhouse has. Its walls have housed hordes of every type of on-looker and participant known to man.

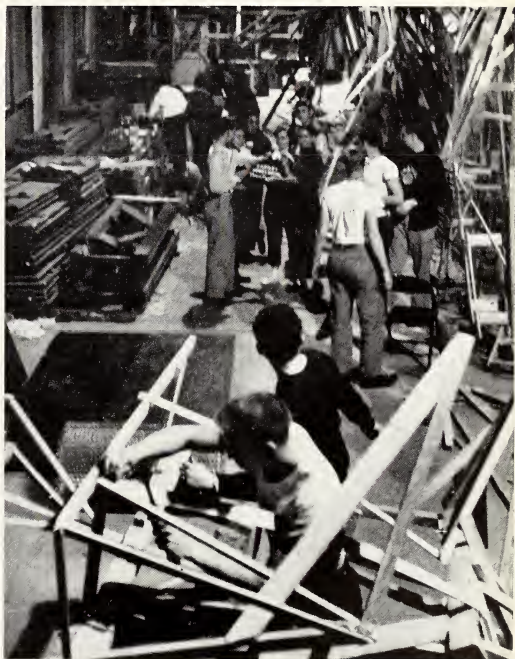

The scope of its usefulness ranges from common chapels to the big time . . . Fred Waring, Holiday on Ice, Victor Borge and the ultimate . . . basketball.

Somehow, events such as Pan-Fra Sing, the Homecoming Stunt Shows and various dances are squeezed into the busy Fieldhouse schedule.

. . . tranquility is a rare virtue of our Fieldhouse.

The Fieldhouse offers precarious perches for an aspiring photographer.

Homecoming is always the busiest season . . . brings the lowest grades.

Tiring of the Tepee, a few of the braver Bradley clan decided to see what could be done about getting a new Union. With fervent college spirit they formed a Student Union Steering Committee, consisting of all interested students and some faculty members.

From this energetic group came the idea of devoting a few minutes of almost every class to discuss the possibilities of having this Union built.

A special SU Day was held. Skits were presented on the steps of Lydia Bradley's beloved building, continuous entertainment offered in the Tepee; a Snake Dance was held and a special Stunt Show was presented in the evening. Obviously impressed, of the 85 per cent of the student body who voted in the SU election, 68.8 per cent voted for a Union largely financed by assessment.

An old landmark bites the dust for a new landmark.

SU Day brought out much hidden talent.

The Teepee entertainers had an appreciative audience.

The berets . . . the tight skirts . . . the candles

Relaxation at cards before the horrors of ROTC drill

A date in five minutes . . . and my hair isn't even dry . . . darn late T.G.I.F.'s.

It's not Sun Valley, but we made the most of what we had.

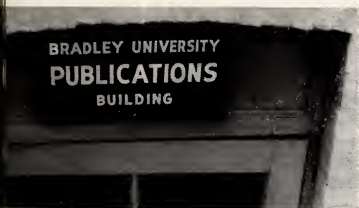

Inspiration and faith for the coming week

Unbelievable as it may seem, there are some weekends when the campus has little to provide in the way of entertainment. These are the awaited moments when one can accomplish those little things that have been put off too long. When these things are done, one provides his own entertainment.

One form of livening up an otherwise "dead" weekend is by throwing a fraternity house party; others summon the gang for a good old-fashioned snowball fight.

In case things are definitely at a standstill, one can resort to washing his hair. Card playing is always good to pass away a few potential study hours.

And then after everything else has been considered or accomplished, one can make an effort to get that deadline met for publications.

We finally got a sign, then we moved.

That barroom pallor . . . the latest bit of gossip . . . subtle jokes . . . pseudo-sophistication.

While roaming around campus on a weekend, one will find the student body participating in a variety of activities.

Dropping in on any of the local malt emporiums, we see the same old gang, doing the same old thing they do every Saturday night and sometimes Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

And then, chancing to go to a home basketball game, one would have seen Lee Utt receive the Most Valuable Athlete award. Lee is a senior, an engineering major from Decatur, Illinois, and has played varsity basketball and baseball for four years.

Riding down Elmwood Avenue, we hear the men of Phi Mu Alpha Music Fraternity riding out a jam session. Phi Mu Alpha has been invaluable to many functions on campus, for their band provides music for many dances and social events.

The goal of Bradley's lettermen, Outstanding Athlete, was won by Lee Utt.

From rock and roll to Tchaikovsky, they can keep the beat . . . Phi Mu Alpha.

Besides causing amazement at their versatility, the Fred Waring Show provided the charm and rich entertainment of real showmanship.

It seems improbable, but most of us have some spare time between classes, dates and short trips to other parts of the country. Sometimes we contribute this time voluntarily to help solicit funds for such causes as the Polio and Blood Drives.

More often a stronger power exerts force upon us and our decisions as to what we'll do with our spare time are made for us. Then we can either go to chapel or even wander into the library to finally read that long overdue assignment. Rarely we can both do what we want and satisfy the powers that be . . . such as hearing Fred Waring and also getting a chapel credit.

Library silence is broken by a laugh at the circulation desk.

A mock trial offered another chapel credit.

The Chi Os and Theta Xis had an inimitable way of collecting funds for polio.

Another brave soul sacrifices a pint of blood for chapel credit and to help Bradley reach its quota.

The small events, the committees and the efforts of individuals mixed in with deadlines, headaches, worries and confusion are the ingredients for functions titled "big events".

The imbalance of emotions over "big events" is tremendous in that exhilarating, keyed-up feeling beforehand and that despondent, let-down feeling afterward. The sum total of both feelings is complete exhaustion.

The promises of assistance are always a disappointment, for too many who subscribe their talents fail to participate when the time actually arrives. Somehow, someday, things are painted, hammered and constructed, details are worked out, supplies ordered and received and miscellaneous functions are performed in time.

If mountains are to be moved, they are disposed of. No one can quite visualize the wonders performed by a handful of students and faculty members when they are truly pressed into action.

Bradley's "big events" must be carried out, and it is merely expected and taken for granted that they will be. A complete refusal by certain groups on campus would only mean that some "big events" would never occur.

Nevertheless, they do occur and will continue to occur because Bradley students want them, look forward to them and are willing to work towards them. It is these "big events" that bring us in closer contact with the mass.

Perhaps the enjoyment others received from these events is payment enough for the sweat and tears of which they are composed.

With rabbits any farmer would let roam in his vegetable garden and a fantastic story and setting, "Crazy Victory" won the first place trophy for Pi Beta Phi, Theta Chi and Theta Xi.

Even before float plans are really groaned over, worries about the Queen plague sororities and we all cut classes to work on the float, Stunt Show plans begin. Weeks of sweat and high blood pressure are finally terminated in a show of almost professional polish.

The Sigma Kappas, Lambda Chis and PiKAs asked us to come to see how Bradley games were won in the Twenties. Odd Homer walked off with the girl and third prize.

The Gamma Phis, Sig Eps and DUs invited the campus to the Homecoming Hoedown; but because Bill Bradley murdered Drake, they didn't know what to do. Solution—they had a hoedown with a trial and copped second place.

The Pi Phis, Theta Xis and Theta Chis showed us how a Skunk could lure Bulldog Drake into the woods and leave Crazy Victory for Bradley. Everyone walked into the woods and this group walked off with the first prize.

The Gamma Phis, DUs and Sig Eps won second place with "Homecoming Hoedown."

"The Oddity of Homer" won third place for Sigma Kappa, Lambda Chi and PiKA.

There were no purple polka dots, but there was certainly a first place pink elephant for Sigma Nu.

Pinocchio said "Drake Whips Bradley" and he was right for a second place award for Theta Xi.

Months of planning, hard work and attempted secrecy accompany the building of fraternity floats. This year, with an enormous pink elephant, Sigma Nu won first place. The elephant was truly a credit to the engineering genius of the Sigma Nus.

Theta Xi used another popular theme, Pinnocio. This large float was one of the most colorful of the parade and was awarded second place.

"Victory, Not Fantasy," the Theta Chi entry, was another exceptionally large and well-planned float. The judges awarded it third place.

Homecoming, the most hectic period in Bradley's social calendar, is highlighted by three prominent events. First is the bonfire, which instills in ardent Bradley fans the spirit needed to cheer the football team to victory on the day of the game.

Second is the dance, the biggest of the year. It is traditionally held in the Fieldhouse, and the committee works feverishly in order to decorate the green building in time for the event.

Last, and to some the most important, is the coronation of the Homecoming Queen. Her Royal Highness is announced at the Thursday Stunt Show, partially so she may reign over the entire weekend of festivities and partially so that the student body will attend that night. The winner of Bradley's most coveted crown this year was Miss Marlyn Sitton.

Harper Hall's house dec resembled the way most students felt the day after Homecoming.

A capacity crowd . . . hopeful faces . . . award presentations . . . the Homecoming Dance

The multi-colored booths go up and the fieldhouse is transformed into the hectic, fun-packed Campus Carnival.

Many weeks before the campus sees the Fieldhouse in Carnival attire, certain campus groups busy themselves with ideas for booths at Campus Carnival.

To the fraternity men usually falls the job of constructing the ornate edifices which house the competing booths. Elaborate schedules are then worked out whereby hardworking club members try to get someone else to sit behind canvas curtains and get "slopped" with custard or some other choice concoction. After all this preparation, the rest of the campus is invited to spend an enjoyable weekend at Campus Carnival.

Last year's winners were Delta Chi Delta sorority, which rewarded lucky patrons of its booth with goldfish, and Theta Chi fraternity, which offered various objects d'art to those who were declared winners of their game.

Afterwards, a messy floor and a sizeable contribution to charity is all that remains.

The first play of the season, Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" introduced a new and talented crop of Bradley actors.

During the 1955-56 season, the Bradley University Theater operated under the leadership of a new director, Robert Cagle. Mr. Cagle brought a new idea to the Theater. Rather than present one play a year, as had been the previous custom, Mr. Cagle staged three. This change gave both the actors and the audiences a variety.

There was a serious play, dealing with a philosophy of life, "Our Town," a farcical and fast-moving comedy, "Thieves' Carnival" and finally, a sophisticated comedy, "The Philadelphia Story". All three productions were well received by the audiences, for the talented and hard-working cast gave the plays an almost professional touch.

Next year's program will undoubtedly prove equally challenging to those who love to act and those who like to see good plays.

"Thieves' Carnival," staged in the fieldhouse, included a matinee for the first time.

The sophisticated comedy "The Philadelphia Story," concluded the season for Bradley's theater group.

Not quite as hectic as Homecoming, but as much fun, is the annual Greek Week held each spring. It is a week of planned activities and functions for members of the fifteen Greek social organizations on campus.

Activities begin with the Pan-Fra Sing competition in which all the sororities and fraternities compete with their best voices and songs for the coveted trophies awarded the winners.

The highlights of Greek Week include the chariot race, picnic and dance, which are held at the end of the week. The fraternities compete in the race with makeshift chariots in which representatives from each sorority ride the most thrilling race of the year. After the excitement dies down, the Greeks get together for some refreshments and singing. The week ends then with an informal dance that evening.

The chorus of Pi Beta Phi with their sparkling rendition of "Where or When" sang their way to first place in the Pan-Fra Sing.

"Ezekiel Saw De Wheel" proved to be a fast-moving, spirited winner for Theta Chi in the Pan-Fra Sing.

The annual Greek Chariot Race provided thrills for the crowd and another trophy for Theta Chi.

After the race, a little snack for the hungry Greeks is provided.

ADMINISTRATION

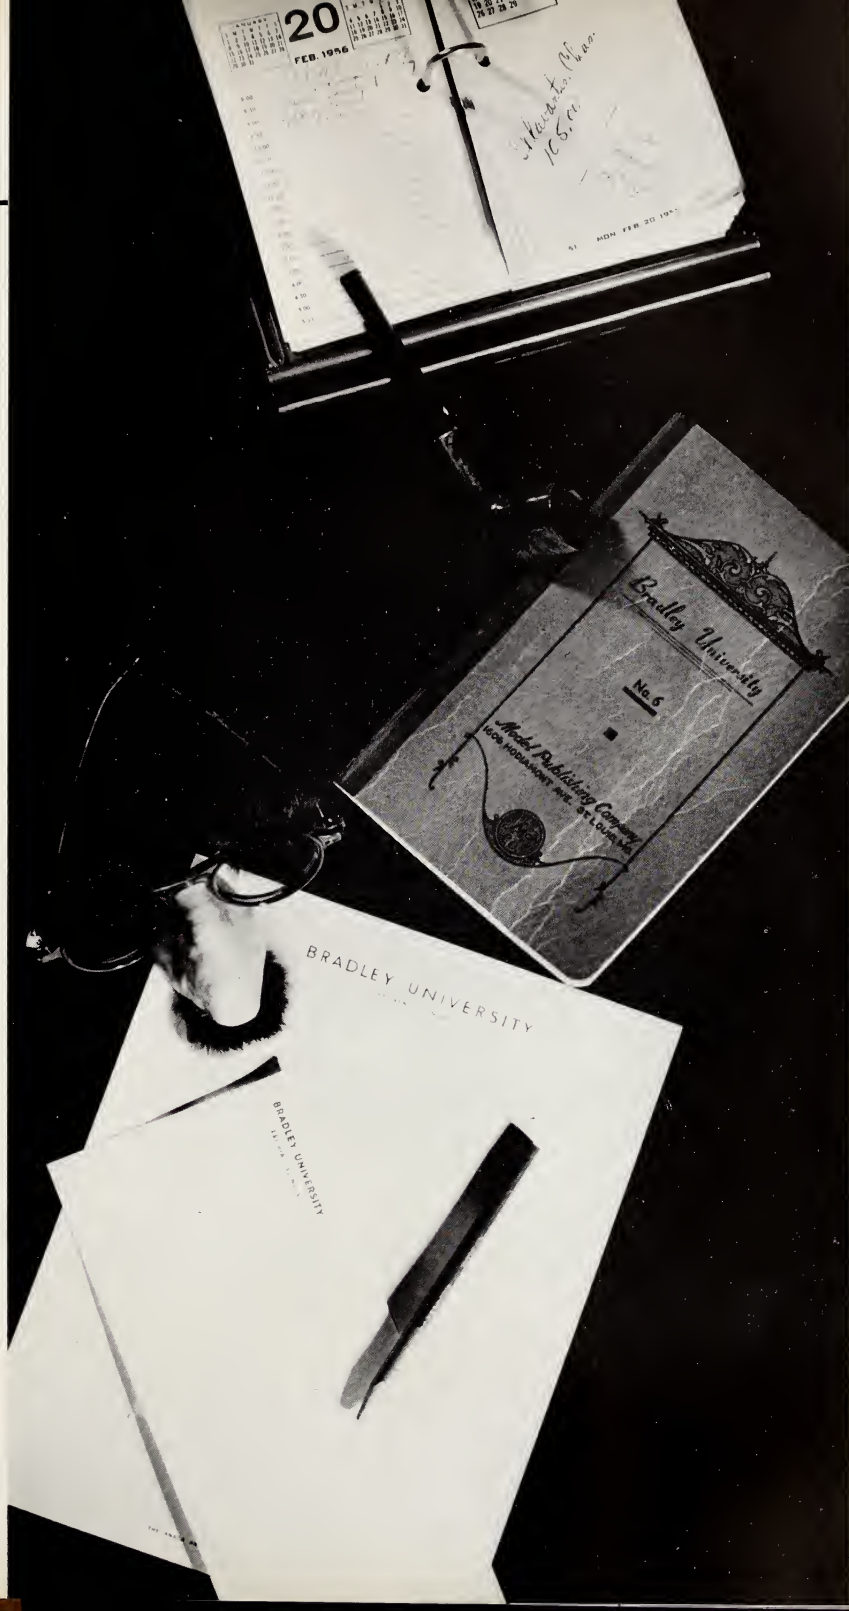

Faculty come in assorted shapes and sizes . . . are sometimes tyrants, sometimes angels . . . are known for doing the unexpected at all times . . . and seem to be here to stay.

We at Bradley have an advantage over other schools: being a medium-sized school, our student-teacher relationship is one of friendliness and helpfulness. Our problems are met and dealt with understanding and courtesy.

As our needs grow, our faculty increases and each member, whether new or old, enters into our projects with spirit and gradually becomes etched in our memories. In return, we show our gratitude with respect.

Famous eyes observe intellectual relaxation.

Vice President

Ever-smiling, vivacious and immaculately dressed are all attributes of Dr. A. G. Haussler, Vice President of the University. When asked what he was in charge of at Bradley, Dr. Haussler replied, "All of the odds and ends."

Aside from heading all non-academic affairs of the school, "Frenchie" maintains a position as number one press agent for Bradley.

Dr. Haussler is an enthusiast of all sports; one of the outstanding honors awarded him recently was being named to the NCAA Olympic Committee.

Dean of the University

As Dean of the University, Chester E. Sipple is concerned largely with running the academic part of university life.

He has a very warm spot in his heart for the student body. From his office he can look out the windows and see the whole campus pass by.

Before becoming Dean of the University, Dean Sipple was head of the History Department. He majored in history at the U. of Iowa.

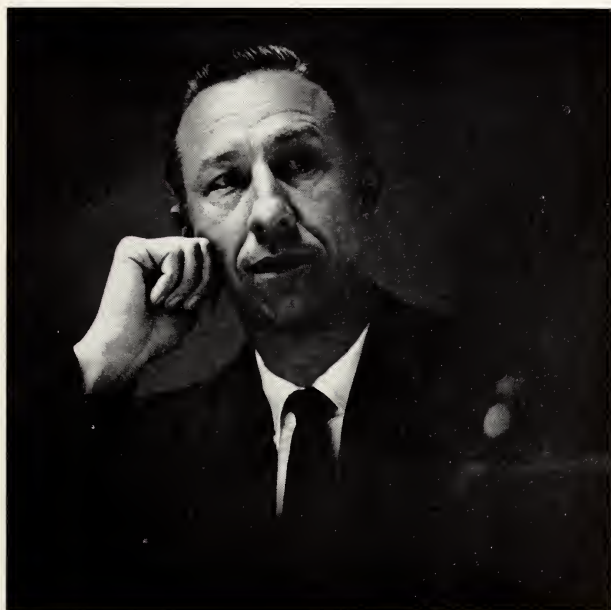

Dean of Women

As Dean of Women, Dr. Olive

B. White comes in close contact with the women of Bradley and all their activities. She is supervisor of the A.W.S. Board, and beginning next September will head the English Department.

She came to Bradley when it was still a very young college. As she has watched the students come and go, she feels that there have been no unusual changes in their basic wants for an education.

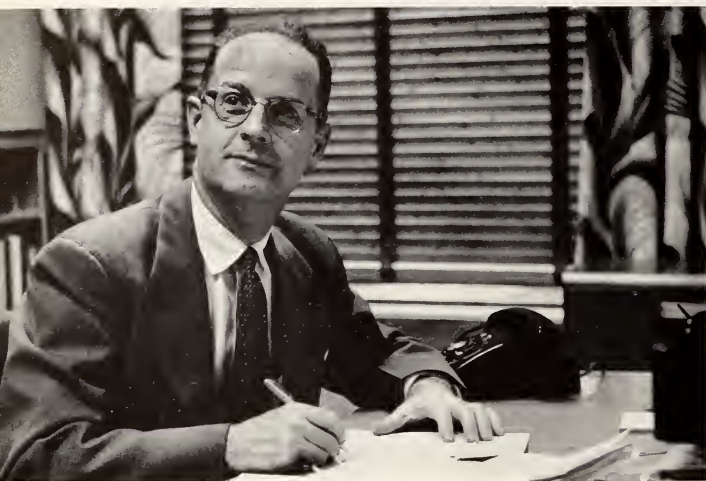

Dean of Students

A welcoming atmosphere greets us as we enter the neat office of Dean Leslie Tucker, Dean of Students. Conversation flows easily and a sense of politeness and courtesy prevails.

A Bradley graduate, Dean Tucker displays a deep interest in all of its activities. His avidness was shown by his participation in the SU Day chapel.

Aside from his many administrative duties, Dean Tucker is the tennis coach at Bradley and has led his fine team to many victories.

Registrar and Director of Admissions

"Good will is my business," is the philosophy of Bradley's Director of Admissions, Orville Nothdruff, who makes our school what it is by selling the assets of the institution to the youth of the nation.

Mr. Nothdruff expresses our good will in his interviews with you, the prospective student of Bradley.

Being a sports fan, Mr. Nothdruff referees basketball and football games in his free time.

Comptroller

Financial worries that plague all of us at one time or another do not seem to bother George R. Beck, Comptroller of Bradley University.

In his orderly office at Comstock Hall, Mr. Beck efficiently handles all the financial affairs of the University. During his eight years as Comptroller, he has conscientiously and sincerely kept the interests of Bradley foremost.

Dean of the College of Education and Director of Special Services

With a keen sense of humaneness and a sincere interest in all who seek his advice, Dr. Leo G. Bent ably adheres to his titles of Director of the Office of Special Services and Dean of the College of Education.

The "hammer, screwdriver and bent nail" seem to be his hobby, as he is presently building his own home.

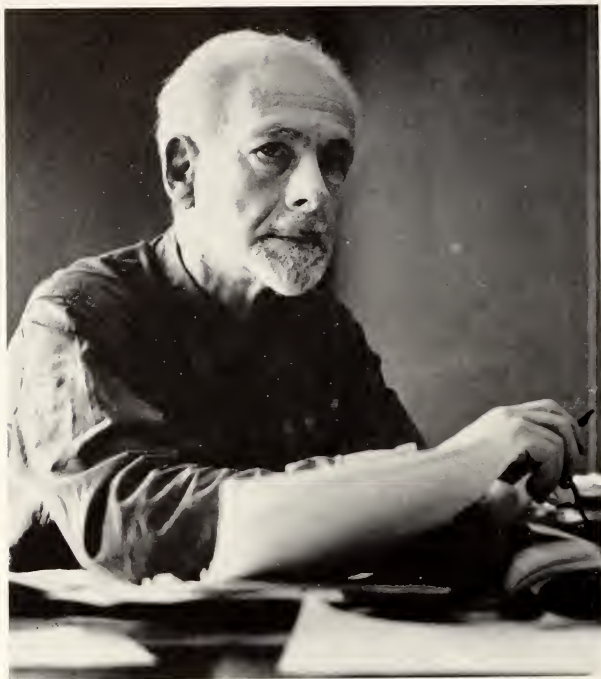

Director of Adult Education and the Evening Division

Dr. Donald E. Gorseline, a native "Hoosier," is Director of the Evening School. The evening division and the adult education department have both expanded under his guidance.

Dr. Gorseline received his degrees from Indiana U. and taught in public schools, at Indiana U. and Northwestern U. before coming to Bradley.

Although his schedule is a hectic one, Dr. Gorseline finds time to be an avid tourist and pursue his favorite sport, trout fishing.

Director of the School of Art

Amid a cluttered office, dotted with objects d'art, sits Dr. Leon S. Engers, seemingly undisturbed. As Head of the Art School, he displays a comprehensive and sincere interest in all of his students.

To add a continental flavor, Dr. Engers has studied in Germany and France and some of his paintings now hang in European museums. Primarily a portrait painter, he is versatile in all fields of art.

Dean of Bennett College

An old-fashioned clock ticks methodically in the back of the small office of Dean Fred E. Dace.

Dean Dace came to Bradley in 1921. Since that time he has been head of the night school division for eighteen years and Dean of Bennett College for the past three years. Second semester he retired as Dean of Bennett College and is now head of the Electrical Division.

Aside from his many duties and obligations, Dean Dace still finds time to pursue his hobby of astronomy.

Dean of the Graduate School

A distinguished man, mustached and spectacled, sits in his small office. As head of the Graduate School and the Department of Philosophy, Dr. Ray Lepley is chairman of the graduate council, and recommends all programs offered in the graduate school.

A graduate of Hiram College, he received his Doctor's degree at Columbia U. before coming to Bradley in 1930.

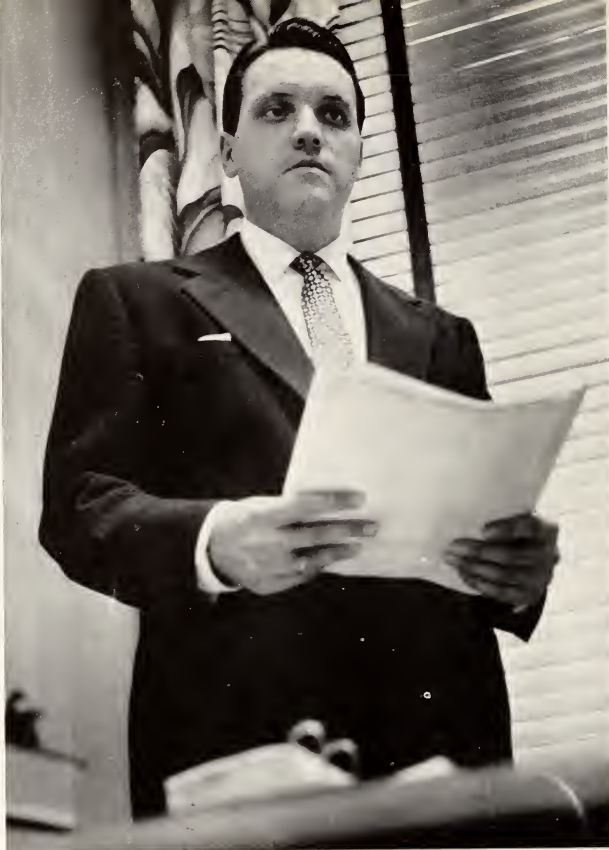

An outdoorsman, Dr. Lepley's vacations are devoted primarily to camping trips. His hobby, however, is writing books and articles.

Dean of the College of Engineering

Outwardly poised and confident but still unable to conceal the thrill of the realization of a dream is Dean Russell E. Gibbs, head of the College of Engineering. Dean Gibbs, a graduate of Purdue, is still marveling at his pride and joy, Jobst Hall.

He is an energetic soul, directing his administration toward the Civil, Industrial and Mechanical Engineering Schools. Much of his time is spent in helping graduates secure positions with well-known firms over the country. Dean Gibbs, in spite of his busy schedule, finds time to do a little relaxing with a few rounds on the golf links.

Acting Dean of the College of Commerce

The newly-appointed Acting Dean of the School of Business Administration, Dean William A. Clarey, stands over the school with his eye ever on ways to make Bradley a better educational institution. Some of his specific duties are providing guidance to faculty members and developing the College curriculum.

After obtaining his master's degree at Bradley, he continued teaching here. Dean Clarey has done work toward his doctorate at the U. of Chicago. He is a bridge enthusiast; however, on nice days you can hear him shouting "fore" on the green.

Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences

An Alma College graduate, Dr.

John H. Shroyer has been at Bradley since 1940. He teaches chemistry classes besides heading the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

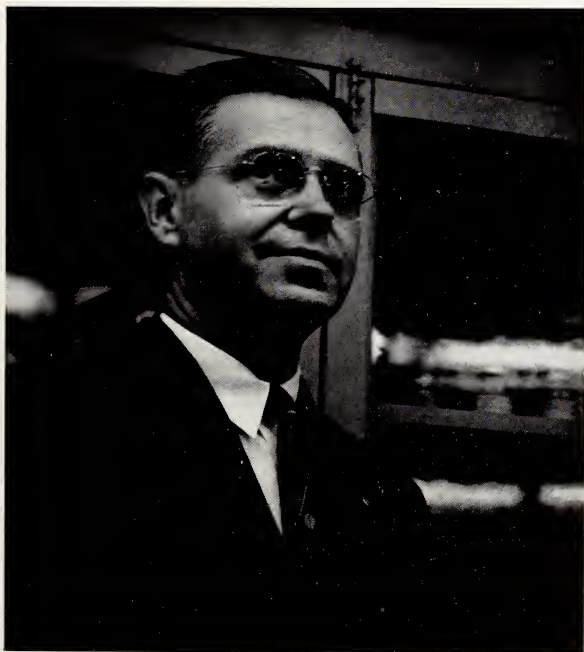

Dr. Shroyer's high school interest in chemistry was highlighted in college when he worked as a lab assistant. This job was a factor in his decision to teach chemistry. One discouraging note, however, seems to be that the only students who take chemistry are those required to do so and chemistry majors.

Director of the School of Music

Stacks of records and miniature instruments lend themselves well for the office of our Director of the School of Music, Dr. K. V. Kincheloe.

With many years of schooling and experience behind him, Dr. Kincheloe now gives to others a vast knowledge of his chosen field. Aside from being Director of Music at Bradley, Province Governor of Phi Mu Alpha and serving on various music committees, Dr. Kincheloe still finds time to direct nine choirs throughout the city.

Dean of Peoria College

Relatively secluded from the bustle of the campus is Dean Wilbur W. Grimm who directs Peoria College from his office in the basement of Bradley Hall. Dean Grimm's scholarly competence guides those students who are enrolled in the two-year terminal program and those preparing for entrance into a professional school.

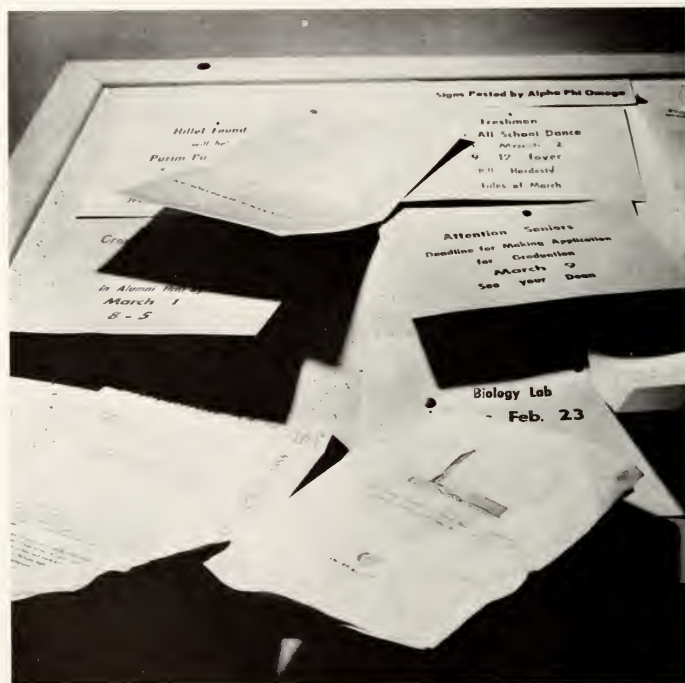

A graduate of the College of Wooster, he received his doctorate from Ohio State. Since his arrival here in 1941, Dean Grimm has impressed all with his outgoing warm personality that has proved a great help to those who meet him.

ACTIVITIES

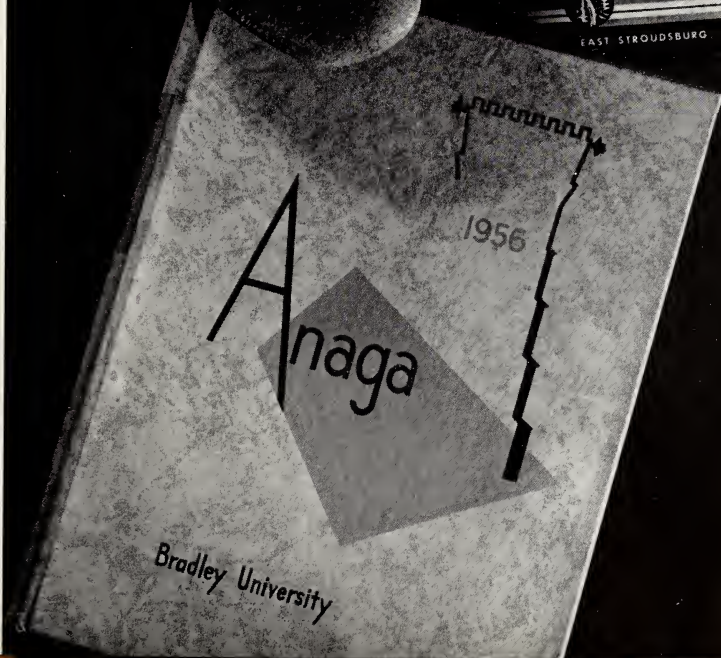

Extra-curricular activities can be thanked for improvements on campus and little could be accomplished without the untiring efforts of the people on the following pages. Among these people you will find well-known campus personalities and some you may never have heard of.

The activities found here vary in many respects. To belong to any one of them is an honor. However some require much more of our time than regular attendance at meetings. All have projects; some of the projects are finished in a short time while others last from year to year.

It is for our own benefit to aspire to be a part of some of these activities. They are the backbone of the campus and the student body.

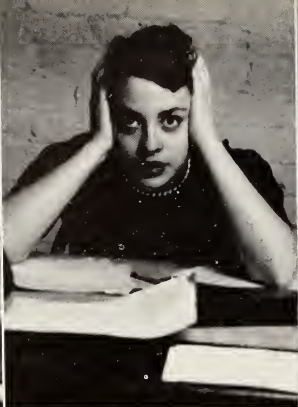

The latest news hangs in Alumni Hall.

I wonder if it'd pass the censor.

The deadline's only a week away!

Where do you think you're going?

Oh, to be in Florida!

"ANAGA," meaning "place on the hilltop," has come to represent in the yearbook the spirit of Bradley. It is the student body, its views and ideas, standards and behavior—in short, a graphic-stenographic presentation of the events that compose the school year.

Among the organized confusion of publishing a yearbook, we sat in an office surrounded by students who were independents and Greeks, by deadlines and a mass of paper, typewriters and hilarity. We were proud and pleased with the "big move" from a desk in the Publications Building to an entire room in Alumni Hall. We have enough room for everyone who would like to work.

From this multitude of things we present the 1956 ANAGA. We hope you find your viewpoint among the many that are presented here.

Small in number but unexcelled in photographic achievement.

Where's your story?

And we firmly believe . . .

We don't have a lead story.

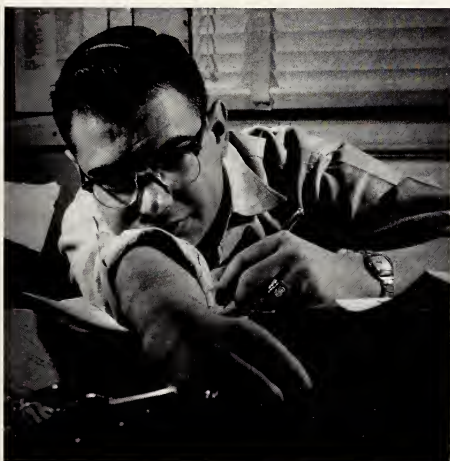

I wish I was in Arabia.

Newspapers are conceived by the idea of bringing news to the people, born of typewriters, cypypaper and fleeting thoughts of a frustrated reporter's mind and growing and thriving with their reader's comprehension.

The Bradley Scout is a small newspaper but lives the life of its bigger brothers. The staff is not comprised of polished journalists, but they are learning.

Newspaper work is long and tedious; the hours are unbearable at times; the copy editor frowns disgust at the story handed in by a reporter; the reporter growls as his story is changed and the rewrite men scream in pain as they look at the work handed them. And above all the shouting and tumult sits the editor.

But somehow everything gets done and the paper is put to bed. Everybody sighs with relief and feels that they have completed a good job. We know they have.

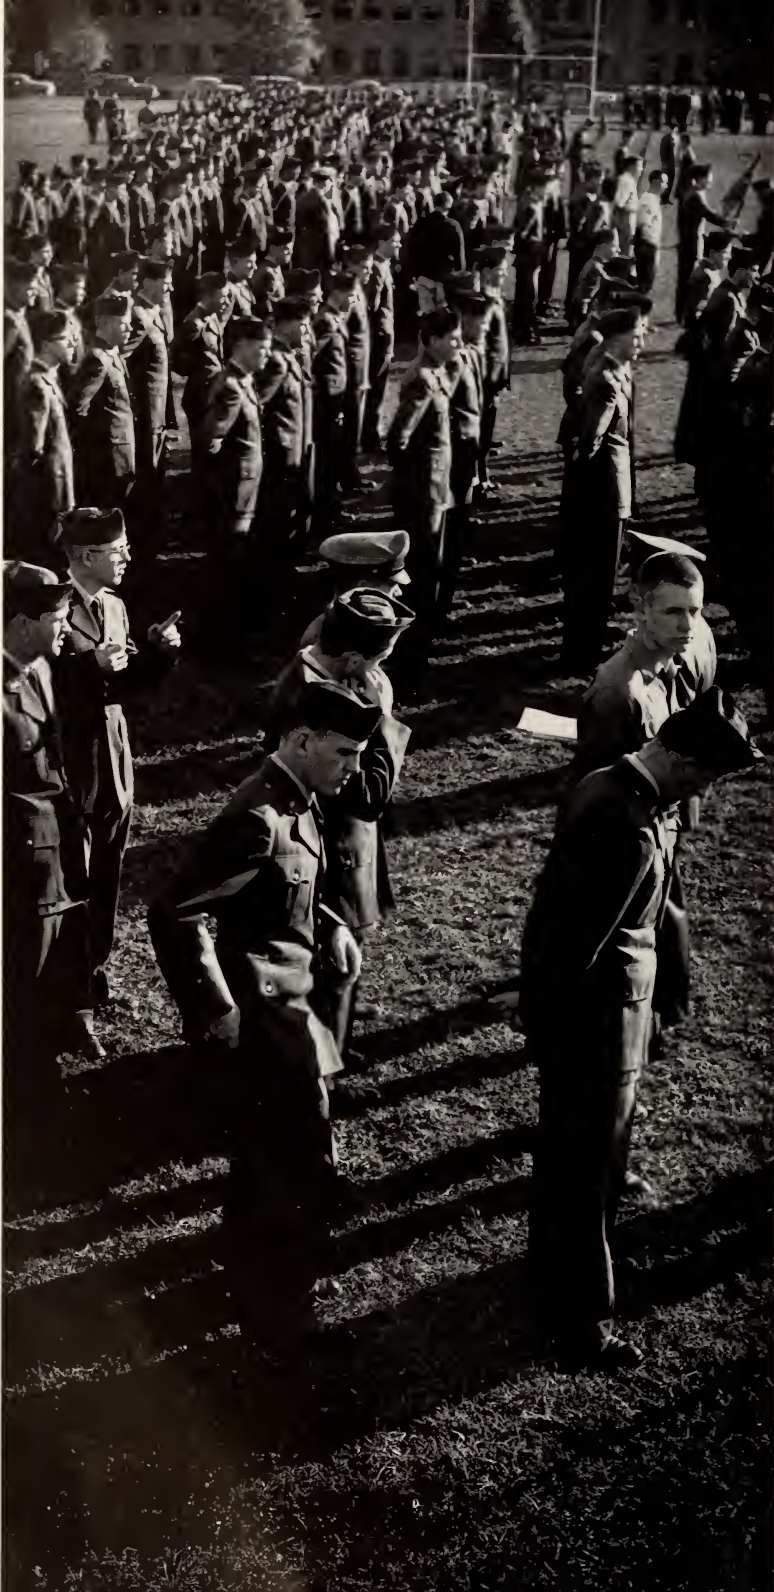

Walt's day is never ended.

With their assistance we publish . . . business staff, James Kirchner, Marilyn Pollack, Barbara Peterson.

War is not calling many American men at the present time. Yet tensions in the diplomatic circles of the world demand that we must be ready to have trained personnel in the event of conflict.

The blue-uniformed cadets of Bradley's AFROTC Wing represent just one of many military units at universities and colleges over the nation. They are the men being trained for the protection of our Freedoms. People may deride the men and their uniforms, but the ROTC symbolizes much more than college men marching and drilling. It denotes preparation of America and faith in the college graduates who will be the leaders of the world in a few short years.

The military bearing and shouts of command do not assert a bunch of boys playing a game. Rather it denotes a feeling of apprehension for the future. The AFROTC's obligation to the nation is to see that she has well-trained, intelligent and prepared men to stand in her defense.

Our marching columns pass in review.

Arnold Air advisors, Capt. Alfred P. Mankin and Lt. Col. Alvin McGary

Arnold Air Society is composed of outstanding junior and senior men in the ROTC.

These men met bimonthly and planned various service projects such as the Red Feather Drive, Homecoming and the Blood Drive. Socially, Arnold Air gave a spring dinner and dance and made their appearance at the Military Ball.

A new project this year was the initiation of Flight, an honor organization for freshman and sophomore men.

Military informality prevails as Angels and Arnold Air members relax.

The university ROTC has added a great deal of splendor and tradition to their blue-clad marching columns with the initiation of women into Angel Flight. Proudly wearing their uniform of navy skirts and white sweaters, the squadron participates in many school and ROTC activities and social functions.

Meetings have included instructions in drill and rifle practice and specific lectures on the Air Force and the life of an airman's wife. A tea is given at the beginning of each semester for rushees.

Board of Control governs student publications; it emphasizes the importance of producing material which combines the desires of the student with university standards and policy. In fulfillment of this, the board passes judgment on students whose names have been suggested as possible candidates for important staff positions on the ANAGA and Scout.

Two seniors, two juniors and three faculty members comprise the board. Naming the outstanding student in journalism to win the Pindell award is another of their functions.

A great deal of transposition occurred at the beginning of the school year for the main student governing body. Along with changing the name from Student Council to Student Senate, an entirely new constitution was passed. This enabled the Senate to have more representation from the student body and gave them more power and duties in regulating activities.

The energetic twenty-nine members who met every Tuesday noon in the Illinois Room included in their busy schedule the sponsoring of a Registration Hop, a Student Senate Dance, the book exchange, the Student Directory and the handling of the Campus Carnival.

Working as a unified group, Panhellenic Council is very successful in solving sorority problems of a general nature; consideration is given to both social and academic life. In a friendly and impartial spirit, the four representatives from each of the five sororities on campus meet monthly in an attempt to obtain a panhellenic viewpoint for use within their specific organizations.

A philanthropic project of the group is their sponsorship of a Greek child through foster parent plan. Panhellenic's annual events include a scholarship banquet and a formal dance.

Inter-Fraternity Council, representative governing and co-ordinating body for the fraternities on Bradley's campus, deals with discipline within the various houses and the formulation of rushing programs. Its meetings often entail discussion and planning of such annual events as the Inter-Fraternity Dance, Pan-Fra Sing, Greek Week, a recognition banquet, and an annual Christmas party for orphaned children. Mu Eta Chi, an informal group which "hashes" out many an individual problem, holds meetings elsewhere following the formal business meetings.

Loyal support of our teams is the motto for the band. Their bright, spirited songs pepped up everyone at games, while precision marching at stadium half-time provided good entertainment. One of the year's highlights for the band was the trip to the St. Louis game. Their rehearsing in Siepert Hall was frequently for a University presentation such as Founder's Day, Convocation and Passing of the Torch

The University Chorus opens its numerous performances of the year by singing at the first convocation and concludes with commencement in June. The annual winter concert presented by the chorus, "Christmas Oratorio" by Bach, received acclaim from the student body and interested Peorians. Mozart's "Requiem Mass", their second main performance, brought equal praise. Participation in the group is open to any Bradley student interested in music and able to meet for practice twice a week. From the chorus a group of selected voices is chosen; thus, the Chorale forms the nucleus of the chorus.

Campus Carnival Committee

One of the many subsidiary committees under the Student Senate, the Campus Carnival Committee, works several months on establishing policies concerning the layout, finance and publicity for the carnival. The purpose of the Campus Carnival is to raise money to give to the various philanthropic groups which would ordinarily solicit the students individually.

Homecoming Committee

During the spring, a group of students begins planning and organizing policies for the next fall's homecoming festivities. The Homecoming Committee works diligently in formulating these policies for float themes, safety precautions and the amount of money allotted to each organization to be represented, in hopes of a Homecoming week-end that will be memorable.

Campus Community Commission

The Campus Community Commission consisting of faculty and student members maintains that extracurricular activities and associations are an important part of the students' educational experiences. To insure the best development of the individuals' experience, the Commission studies the needs of the campus community in order to understand the objectives and to contribute to the students' growth in them.

Associated Women Students Board

Twice a month representatives from each sorority and the women's dormitories meet with Dean Olive B. White to establish and maintain rules and regulations for women's social functions. Besides rendering their time to this council the group sponsored for the third year a "Lee Sun Hae Day" to support a Korean war orphan.

Departmental Council

The representatives of seventeen clubs affiliated with various departments of the University compose the Departmental Council. To produce a "channel" to and from Student Senate, the group elects one representative for this governing body. Operating as an advisory group, the council deals with matters concerning publicity, service points and backing of projects.

Row 1: Gary Rafool, Doris Davie.

Special Interests Groups Council

Acting as a subsidiary council of the Student Senate, the Council on Special Interests Groups tries to promote, coordinate and provide liaison among the organizations under their jurisdiction in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Student Senate. This council is composed of one representative from each organization listed by the Student Senate as a special interest group, and they represent their group at the weekly Senate meetings.

Gary Best, Arlene Maynard, Donald Lenhausen.

Recognition Societies Council

Any problems or difficulties that may arise within the councils, honoraries or clubs on campus may be taken to the Recognition Society Council. Coordinating and controlling University organizations is their main objective.

Row 1: Marilyn Durham, Robert Eicken, Gayle Davis.

Row 2: Donald Lenhausen, Douglas Alligood, Robert Carr, Raymond Powers.

Honor Societies Council

Among the many subordinates under the Student Senate is the Honors Society Council. Representatives from the various honoraries meet to establish and regulate policies governing the organizations, attempting to clarify any problems that may arise within the groups.

Row 1: Sharis Boyd, Bernard Katz.

All-School Events Council

As a subordinate to Student Senate, All-School Events Council operates as a governing group. The council appoints a committee for each school event such as Homecoming, Mother's Day, Campus Carnival and all-school dances, and checks up on the general functioning of these committees.

Gary Best, Robert Savio, Donald Brian, John Stortz.

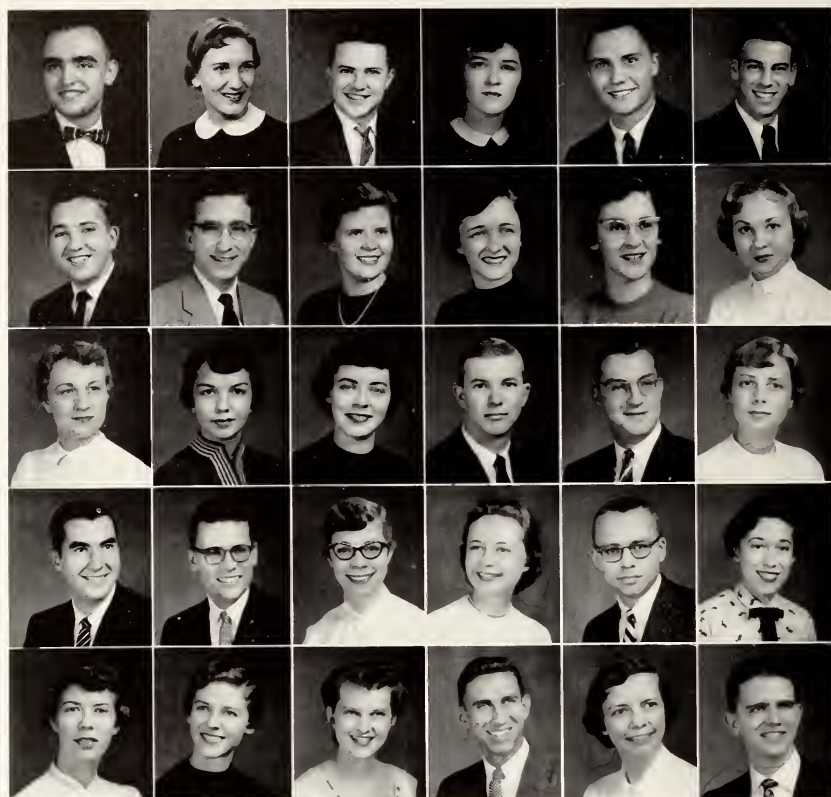

Professional Fraternities Council

Professional Fraternity Council—made up of representatives from Sigma Alpha Iota, Phi Mu Alpha, Phi Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi—was formed on our campus in the spring of 1955. The underlying purpose of its formation was to gain representation in Student Senate. At present, the council is in its early stages of development.

Who's Who

For two decades now, national public recognition has been given to outstanding students through the publication "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Only a small percentage of students from each college and university are awarded this honor by their excellent scholarship, leadership and service attainment while in college.

Omicron Delta Kappa

Increasing emphasis on leadership, Omicron Delta Kappa, Junior-Senior men's service honorary, requires that its members have a five-point average plus experience in a variety of campus activities. As chairmen of the Blood Drives, organizers of the annual Campus Day, and supervisors of the newly formed Leadership Training Conference, O.D.K. has displayed qualities of organizational ability.

Wakapa

Senior women with a 6.0 average and meeting the requirements of leadership and service to our campus may become members of the outstanding group, Wakapa. Among the many activities of this select group were their assistance given on Campus Day and raising money to help furnish the new speech clinic.

Federation of Scholars

A national honorary comprised of students obtaining a six-point average for two semesters, this group stands as an academic goal to be pursued by the Bradley student. In so doing, Federation of Scholars is working as a promoter of interests in higher scholastic attainment.

Alpha Lambda Delta

Alpha Lambda Delta members encourage women students to strive toward attaining a seven-point average during their freshman year—the eligibility requirements for membership in this honorary. An outstanding activity of the group is their sponsorship of receptions during Freshman Orientation Week.

Row 1: Joan Foote, Susan McConnell, Sally Erikson.
 Row 2: Marie Roecker, Barbara Shaffer.
 Row 3: Sharis Boyd, Phyllis Porch, Barbara Detrick.

Phi Eta Sigma

The freshman men's scholastic honorary, Phi Eta Sigma, in which an attainment of a 7.0 average is required, acquaints entering male students with the honorary by sponsoring a freshman mixer during Orientation Week each semester. The members also assist the freshman counselors in registering their advisees, and they organize and issue pamphlets to the new students on good study habits.

Pi Gamma Mu

A 6.0 overall average and a 6.0 average in social sciences, plus junior standing, are the membership requirements of this honorary. Undergraduate and alumni members may be majors in any of the four subject areas—history, economics, political science and social science. The group is concerned with the nomination of outstanding students as competitors for scholarships awarded by the national organization.

Tau Sigma

Tau Sigma members, junior and senior engineers having a six point average, plan to familiarize high school students with Bradley's educational facilities in the field of engineering through tours and discussion periods. To encourage scholarship, Tau Sigma annually awards a key to the most outstanding freshman engineering student.

Row 1: Robert Fehr, Larry Koch.

Row 2: Herschell Bottrell, William Etzenbach, James Stout, Delbert Kramer.

Zeta Pi

Zeta Pi, active on our campus for thirty years, aims to promote higher scholarship in training for business. Members are business majors of junior or senior standing with 6.0 averages. Each year the group elects an outstanding Peoria businessman as an honorary member.

Row 1: Brooks Read, Robert Dan, Mr. M. F. Grisafe, Marilyn Overend.

Row 2: Miss Sofrona Smith, Thomas McRaven, Mr. William Clary, Jack Zalke, Joseph Wallace, Mr. Loyal G. Tillotson.

Alpha Delta

The members of Alpha Delta not only take pride in their journalistic ability and interest, but they also devote many of their free hours to working on our publications, the ANAGA and Scout. They, in turn, are rewarded by the outstanding honors which have been received by both publications.

Row 1: Laureine Johnson, Sally Erikson.

Row 2: Barbara Millner, Jack Gillespie, Elise Segroves, Donald Lenhausen.

Delta Phi Delta

Delta Phi Delta's new projects are twofold, making posters for campus organizations and exhibiting members' art work. The fullest display of their talent is found in the exhibits held in the library twice during the semester. Members must be at least juniors and have maintained a 6.0 average in art courses.

Row 1: Shirley Stever, Susan McConnell.

Row 2: Jackie Houghton, Mr. Gerald Fromberg, Henrietta Cooper, Phyllis Stern.

Chimes

Encouragement to attain high scholarship, leadership and service is the purpose behind the women who are members in the junior honorary, Chimes. Willingly they fulfill their requirement of service to our campus by some of the projects they undertake such as the Freshman mixer during Registration Week and a booth at the Campus Carnival.

Phi Sigma Pi

Interested and qualified undergraduate men in education have the opportunity of joining the national education honorary, Phi Sigma Pi. At the monthly meetings this year, topics on the professional phase of education were developed for the information and interest of the members.

Row 1: Ralph Nibbelin, Robert Eicken.

Row 2: Edward Linn, Mr. Kermit Johnson, Robert Olson.

Pi Kappa Delta

Members of Pi Kappa Delta participated in a number of speech activities. Their main contribution toward increasing Bradley's prestige has been their sponsorship of the annual Bradley Invitational Speech Tournament. Members are chosen on the basis of their participation in speech events.

Row 1: Gary Rafool, Bernard Katz.

Kappa Alpha Mu

Membership requirements for this national photo honorary are a 6.0 average for two consecutive semesters in photography classes and sophomore standing. Members undertake various pictorial projects during the semester. Their most important function, however, is taking pictures for our publications.

Row 1: Richard Noon, Dale Magness.

Row 2: Donald Lenhausen, Donald Brooks, Richard Penelton.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Becoming a larger organization each year,

Alpha Kappa Psi, the national professional business fraternity, continued their interest in the business world by attending monthly professional luncheons and sponsoring a district convention and a retailing conference. Besides being strictly business, the fraternity's social calendar included rush smokers and winter and spring formals.

Phi Mu Alpha

Digging the latest in the music word is the favorite pastime of the Phi Mu's. They played for just about everything—Stunt Show, SU Day and the Sing. The boys are frequently found vocalizing around the house between their two concerts and dances and can even get up a choir and quartet when necessary.

SPORTS

What is a sport? Is it a way of life or a manner of achieving personal fame?

To a spectator it can be anything from a Saturday afternoon date at the stadium, an exciting basketball contest in the Field-house, to an integral part of the viewer's life.

To the participant in a sport it is the self-expression of his merits and talents. The athlete by performing better than his competition, presents his ability. The word "competition" itself is a proper definition of sports.

At Bradley, sports play an important part in our collegiate pastime. With our return to the Missouri Valley Conference the prospects of greater heights in the field of all sports have been multiplied.

Clever strategy . . . fast ball handling . . . calisthenics

Short gain for an opponent

The whistle blows as he's over for a TD

Let's take it back all the way.

Papa Bear, George Halas' top secret pass patterns, numerous run backs of varied abilities and a new right arm helped make the return of a Bradley alumnus to the little dirty-grey gym across the way, a successful one in 1955.

Ex-Bear, Billy Stone, away from the odors that emanate from Carl Grose's alcove of healing for nearly a decade, returned as coach, and led the Brave gridgers to a neat 5-3-1 season's record.

When the men of Stone dropped two of their first three contests, easily-shaken followers began to wonder if this competition was too tough for us. Coach Stone bore down on our boys for the rest of the season with the result of a fine winning record and better to come.

Everyone wants to get into the act.

As judged from the sidelines

Big enough to drive a truck through

He hit a stone wall.

Loosening up

That final turn and then the last powerful lunge can sometimes win the swim meet.

Churning their way to victory over formidable opponents, Bradley's tankmen ended up the season with 3 victories and 6 losses.

Being a lesser sport, swimming is more or less an unknown event at Bradley. The practice sessions and home meets are staged at Peoria's new YMCA.

Highlighting the season were victories over Western Illinois and Illinois State Normal. Leading this year's frogmen were Dave Tucker, who holds a record for garnering the most swimming points per season at Bradley, and Dave Brim, leading back stroker.

With interest running high and most of the team returning, next year should be a good one for the tankmen.

After a four-year absence, Bradley returned to the Missouri Valley Conference.

The outlook for a successful season was dimmed early by the loss of high scoring Shellie McMillon with an injured knee. A second loss of leading scorer and rebounder, Barney Cable, at the semester's end put Bradley in a shipwrecked situation.

With a reshuffled lineup, Bradley trounced Army, then lost to five straight Valley opponents. In a tremendous upset the Braves out-thought Oklahoma A. & M. in a closely fought control game, 46-43. Leading the team in scoring were two graduating seniors, Lee Utt and Jack Gower.

Coach Vanatta did a noteworthy job in handling a young team faced with misfortune. Next year, barring mishaps, the Braves' basketball success should be unlimited.

Coach "Ozzie" Orsborn in his eighth year at the freshman reins once again fielded a well-coordinated ball club.

The yearlings' stiffest test was against a tall St. Louis quintet. Bradley at one time trailed by 21 points but fought back to come within 5 points, losing 76-71. The young Braves won a double overtime victory 88-85 over Moberly, last year's Junior College National Champions. The highlight of the season was the return game with St. Louis. Bradley upset the Billikens 102-83.

The first-year men finished with a brilliant season record of 15 wins and only 1 loss. Gene Morse was leading scorer.

Upon looking at this year's golf record we find that our Brave link-men did themselves proud with a fine record of 13 wins and only 3 losses during an exciting season.

With the team composed of many veterans, including co-captains Bob Togikawa and Don Guariglia, opponent after opponent fell before their strokes. We finished a creditable third in the Missouri Valley Conference Meet.

As the spring season rolls into full swing, the 1956 Bradley tennis team will be out on the rubico courts trying to better their last year's record of six wins and five setbacks. Coach Tucker commented that this year's netmen should jell solidly, as six veteran letter winners from the 1955 squad will be on hand to match our opponents, stroke for stroke.

Approaching the first barrier

Taste the dust of the cinder track; smell spring in all its glorious serene bloom; hear the crack of the starter's gun; feel the runners' hearts straining to meet the thin white tape; see the flying feet and feel the splinters in the hard wood benches . . . the track meet has begun.

With all the sweat and strain of the team, the "Braves" wound up a successful season ranking fourth in the Missouri Valley Conference. Dick Richardson broke two high jump records during the season.

This year will be a history-making year for the cindermen. With many returning veterans and with a first place goal to shoot for in the Missouri Valley Conference, our Braves will be fighting from the opening meet.

Will the ground crew ever get the field into shape? One wonders as he peers between the bars—mounds of sand and sod greet his eye. However, winter soon turns to the warm breezes of spring and another sport takes the limelight.

Baseball has always been one of Bradley's favorite sports, and many enthusiasts eagerly await this coming spring when the Braves' nine will again take to the field.

Our Braves rolled over six opening opponents on their Southern tour and ended up the '55 season with a successful 16 won and 5 lost record. With many of the starting veterans again returning, and with some extra added power coming from the experienced underclassmen, the Braves predict a successful season.

Members of the varsity teams who have lettered in their respective sports comprise the members of this campus organization. Among its various activities are sponsoring the sale of beanies, the "B" Club Dance, donations to worthy organizations and two sports banquets throughout each school year.

The field is widening out now.

The sound of the shotgun cannon coming from the valley of Bradley Park boomed the Inter-Fraternity sports program off to a rough and tumble football season.

The fraternity boys play in rain or shine with the spirit always running high. The fraternities this year will be out to overtake the all-sports winner of last year's trophy, Theta Xi, before the sports program draws to a close late in May.

With the full program planned by the coordinator of sports, "Dutch" Meinen, and governed by the Inter-Fraternity sports council, there is never a dull moment during the year. Sports included in the program are touch football, basketball, swimming, wrestling, tennis, bowling, golf, softball, table tennis and track.

Did you ever notice the lights that never seem to dim in the men's gym? If you were to peer between the bars you would find, under the capable leadership of John "Dutch" Meinen and selected physical education majors, Bradley University's fine intra-mural sports program under way.

Throughout most of the school year the dormitory boys fight it out for the team and individual championships. The program is planned to give everyone interested a chance to participate in a competitive sport.

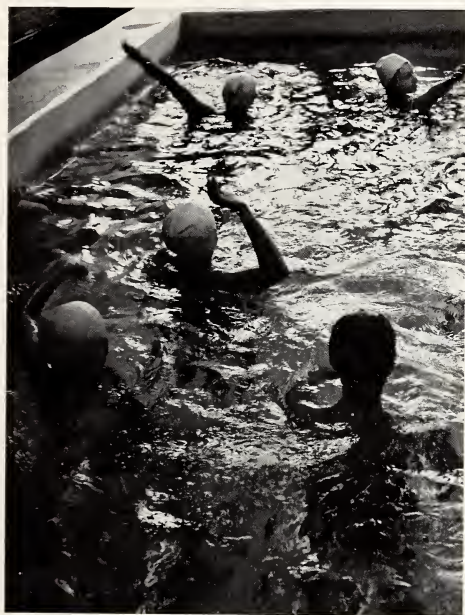

Basketball, volleyball, softball, and ping pong comprise the program.

A lot of English on that return

Modern contortions by Orchesis

Don't make waves.

Suffering from an extreme paucity of participants, non-existent enthusiasm and aimless athletic ability, the Women's Recreational Association governed participation in sports by the Independents and sororities. A member from each sorority and the "Indees" constituted the board and chose a chairman for each activity. Volleyball, basketball, swimming, softball and tennis kept the muscle-minded gals busy. The W.R.A. also awarded a traveling trophy to the group with the most wins.

GREEKS

The following pages are dedicated to the events in the college life of a Bradley affiliate. Each organization has personally told you its story. An outstanding feature of our Greeks is their trying to make their big events bigger and their small affairs big. No matter whether we are Greek or independent, we all agree that the affiliate plays a prominent role in campus events. We hope that you enjoy our informal approach to Greek life, and that our graphic-stenographic presentation brings to view both big and little memories.

Avenues, a large white colonial house stands tall and proud—the home of Chi Omega sorority.

Walking in around dinner time, one usually finds four gals sitting in the middle of the living room floor playing pinochle.

The music room is decorated with huge trophies of the past and present.

The sorority stands for service and charity as expressed by contributions for the Polio Drive, a donation for the Student Union and Kiddie Karnival for under-privileged children.

The home of many campus queens, it will always be known for its "Foolish Frolics". After Tuesday night spreads, friendship circles and a "candlelight" bring these sisters close together.

The biggest accomplishment of the year was breaking away from the usual third place and producing a second place in the stunt show; however, the viewers are still asking, "What ever did happen to the Gamma Phi hoe-down?"

The Gamma Phis built a nearly perfect home-coming float this year—they appear to be "veteran" float builders.

They do most of their socializing under the stern eye of the Indian in the Tepee. Ten o'clock Tepee hour is a must on every Gamma Phi schedule.

The Pi Phis came back in September

To a house they truly remembered.
Rooms were assigned, and work had begun
To make this rush a great deal of fun.
Rushing and pledging and other attractions
Made the year for us a true satisfaction.
Homecoming came and the float was our pride
First place in Stunt Show was won by a landslide.
Our winter dance was quite a ball
Old Santa himself came with quite a haul.
We left at semesters and breathed a deep sigh
And the Pi Phi grade point still ranked high.
Last year's sing practices were hard to make
But first place in Pan-Fra wasn't hard to take.
Spring was ushered in by a gigantic ball
And a truly fine time was had by all.
The summer brings partings that seem so sad
But truly, fun we all have had.

The girls at the Sigma Kappa house are proud of their philanthropic work which included reading to sick children at a local hospital, a Christmas party at the chapter house for a group of orphans and donating food for the needy at Thanksgiving. They also beam about the painting and landscaping additions to the exterior of their "home away from home" during the past summer.

The "atmosphere of relative privacy" still seems to pervade between the Sig Kaps and their neighbors to the southwest.

The girls are cheered when they think of campus awards and offices with which they have been honored this year. These include three members elected to "Who's Who"; Presidents of the Senior Class, Alpha Delta, Sigma Alpha Eta, W. R. A.; Sigma Nu Sweetheart; Dream Girl of PiKA; two 3rd places in scholarship; 3rd place in Stunt Show and 2nd place, float.

DELTA CHI DELTA

House formals help an ailing budget.

Situated in a little white house on Bradley Avenue, the Delta Chi Deltas have a high percentage of cooperation and participation in campus activities.

The Delta Chis are proud of their sisters in honorary groups such as Sigma Alpha Iota, Alpha Lambda Delta, Delta Phi Delta, Wakapa, Who's Who and Federation of Scholars.

Ping pong balls and fish helped them to place second in Campus Carnival last year. An annual bake sale is held by the D.C.D.s, and the profits from the sale help pay for a party given to the children at Friendship House.

House parties, wiener roasts, slumber parties and sleigh rides were some of the enjoyable social events of the intimate group.

Realizing their fifth year on campus, the D.C.D.s are looking forward to more prosperous and wonderful years to come.

WANDERING GREEKS

This space has been set aside to recognize those Greeks who have transferred to Bradley and have no chapter here with which to affiliate, except socially, which is usually the case.

Their outstanding activities are parties, formals, informal dances and other functions in which they can participate with a social affiliation.

Possessing a carefree air and new ideas, these "Wandering Greeks" are always a welcome sight to overburdened, trouble-weary campus affiliates.

The street was dark, shadows moved across the porch on 121 North University, then speakers blared, "Come to the House of Blue Lights", and so the AEPi's social season started. The punch went fast as did the beat of the music.

Homecoming brought the alums back to the West Bluff. Some new things had been added: manpower, a chapter newspaper, high grades and a re-decorated shower room. A new cook became the fad along with studying and extra-curricular activities.

In IFC sports rooters exclaimed, "Wait 'till next year!" The stalwarts of AEPi will wait until next year—they hope it will be a trophy year.

AEPi's became presidents in the Hillel Foundation, Alpha Kappa Psi and Zeta Pi.

Being of sound mind, high moral character, fine physiques and definitely marked, the DU's adhered to their principles in the following manner during the past year:

The Promotion of Friendship: Bathtub Gin Party (a social skyrocket), entertaining orphans at the house and forming a Congratulations Committee.

The Development of Character: Bathtub Gin Party, winning first place in IFC scholarship and a unique rushing system with pleasant results.

The Diffusion of Liberal Culture: Glibly singing "Lydia Pinkham", an increasing amount of tool box majors and snap courses, wanting Nashua for a mascot but settling for Toby and a Bathtub Gin Party.

The Advancement of Justice: After IFC sports competition, the DU's were positive that there ain't hardly no justice any more—"We seen it".

Having taken second in the scholastic race, IF sports and Pan-Fra Sing, and third in the Homecoming Stunt Show, has not dimmed their outlook for there are always more trophies to be added to the overflowing collection. However, the unique "Traveling Homecoming Trophy" brings so much activity to that end of campus that it often is awarded by unpopular "public demand".

High above the Glenwood thoroughfare stands the steadfast white columns of Sigma Chi Fraternity's new home. The white pillars have become a campus landmark. They exemplify the solidity of a great national organization. Grand President Dwight J. Peterson stood before these pillars at the Centennial Dedication Initiation and said, "With the start Delta Rho has made here, they will make a magnificent contribution to Sigma Chi and Bradley in years to come."

The Sigs staged the first IFC Homecoming football game in university history. (Too bad about the scoreless tie.) Looking to the future, the "Sigs" forecast a close race in the battle for the IFC sports trophy and also setting another precedent—they aspire to be the first fraternity to have a house mother.

Still suffering from growing pains, the Sig Ep's made their small house seem larger by changing the interior color scheme. The once-empty trophy case had to have an addition, and the usually over-active ping-pong room is now filled with odds and ends from the labyrinth of the house.

Trying to fill the footsteps of "Goldie, the Trojan Horse", was "Duke, the Boxer". After molesting the mailman, the milkman, the breadman and other frequent visitors, Duke left taking with him all the aromas but leaving the memories that a fraternity dog bestows.

The Sig Ep's placed 3rd in the Pan-Fra Sing for the second straight time, 2nd in the Stunt Show, gave their annual all-school Founder's Day Dance and were one-third partners in the annual Confederate Ball.

"All the conveniences of home" seemed to be the word at the "Teke" house this year. During the summer the men from Fredonia completely remodeled the interior of their house. Along with such modern conveniences as hot and cold running water, they have enjoyed several house parties in their new knotty-pined basement. The brothers did a considerable amount of belt loosening during the year; the cause being attributed to a new kitchen and cook.

"Teke" is a steady competitor in IFC sports and they seem to have their own version of the Globe Trotters in their traveling basketball team. The only regret they have is that their accomplished champion pinochle team has not, as yet, been able to compete.

Among their favorite pastimes, besides studying, are thinking up new nicknames for one another, exercising their right arms and celebrating Veteran's Day.

CLASSES

Can you remember . . .

As a freshman, those first weeks at Bradley filled with excitement, hopes, discoveries and disillusion?

As a sophomore, the satisfaction of returning to a campus now familiar, with a determination to break out of your shell and venture into the outer world on campus?

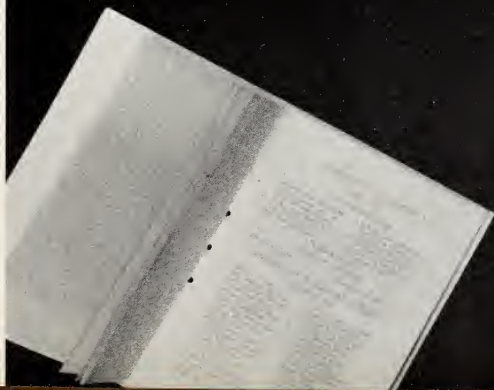

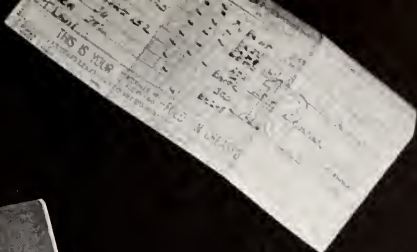

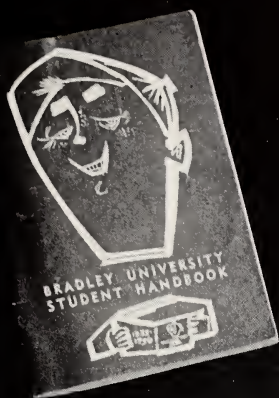

As a junior, the thrill of being an upperclassman, the continuous whirl of activities and the week-ends that were never quite long enough?

As a senior, the elated feeling of having reached the top of the ladder and the recollections of pleasant memories during the past three years?

From green beanie to mortar board, we find ourselves, conquer our books and with a twinge of sadness, leave Bradley.

Annual spring free load for high school seniors

In the spring, Bradley plays host to high school seniors at an annual open-house picnic. Tours of the campus and Greek houses are on the agenda as well as a spread on the athletic field.

Later in the spring, our annual attempt for a student cultural event is personified in the Passing of the Torch ceremony. The lighted candle passed from the senior to the junior symbolizes the light of knowledge acquired here.

As the culmination of the year, the seniors gather at graduation. For the last time as a part of Bradley, they receive their degrees and leave the campus.

A spirited dance to aid the Passing of the Torch

Seniors take leave.

To satisfy a whim, the actives' demands or perhaps a sincere interest, many of us devoted some of our time to an organization.

The organization may have been departmental, religious or special interest. Their projects may have failed sometimes, but the spirit of co-operation gained from working together for a common goal was of prime importance. The practical experience from leading a group or following in a group was important, too.

Here on the campus we pride ourselves with variety and being different. Our organizations are of a great variety, but we sometimes wonder if more couldn't be accomplished.

The clubs on the following pages were formed to fulfill our needs and certainly are worthy of our efforts and time.

Think I'll spring a pop-quiz tomorrow.

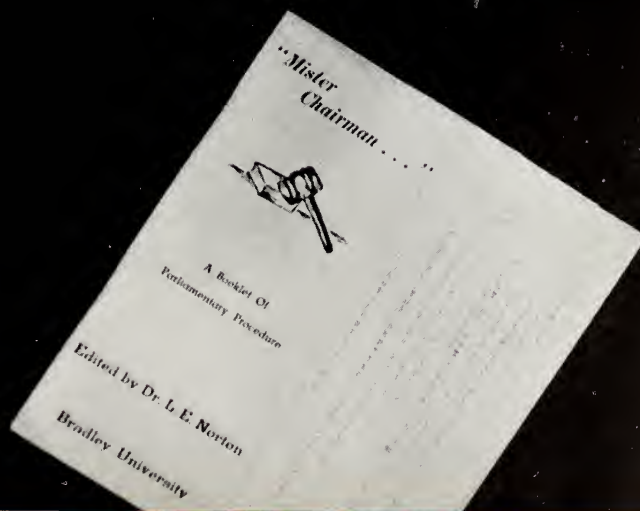

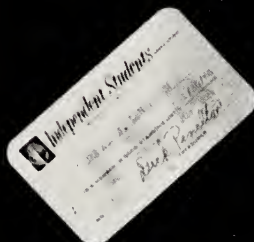

Pre-Med Meeting

Biology Lab

Thurs. Feb. 23

7:30

"Speaker"

Too full to do anything else, we listen attentively.

The clubs this year were working to improve themselves with a variety of undertakings—from a rummage sale to a tutoring service . . . door prizes to awards for outstanding members . . . hay rack rides to dances . . . dinner meetings to informal parties. We enjoyed ourselves, got to know the faculty a little better and even learned something worthwhile.

The organization's bond in common—a few members who do all the work. The rest just pay their dues or come when it's time for picture taking.

We listen intently to pearls of wisdom?

Independent Students Association

Row 2: David Michelson, Mary Ann Stillman, Mary Ann Klima, Marianne Spanogle, Jean Burnett, Norae Lindeman, Gerald Hinton.

Row 2: Ronald Sis, Allen Schumacher, Joanne Broggi, Claire Stellas, Miss Marina Farmakis, Bernard Katz.

The Independents were reorganized this year into a co-ed group instead of last year's separate organizations for men and women. The year found them extremely active with their big project of service to the school. Now nationally affiliated, members were denoted by their pins, and were usually found in the general vicinity of the TePee.

Their many social activities included a fall party, initiation banquet, all-school dance and a formal. The "Indees" did the campus Homecoming Decs and were seen in the parade in red and white cars. The organization was hampered by those members of the campus who chose to be independent of the Independents.

Society of Civil Engineers

This club offers the usual to encourage new members to attend its exciting programs of speakers, movies and refreshments. Their only project worth any attention is the annual field trip to Chicago which is the attraction of the year for the "Ground Pounders."

- Row 1: Edgard Guevara, Richard Spangler, John Hentschel, Joseph West, John Franklin, John Wetzel, Melvin Luke.
 Row 2: Max Hoerr, Elling Johnson, William Etzenbach, Francis Sheets, William Brunk, Ronald Richards, Clifford Johnson, Jerry Kogucki.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers

Enticing prospective members with coffee and doughnuts, A.S.M.E. proved themselves to be quite efficient and one of the most active organizations in Jobst Hall. Movies and lectures were on the agenda, plus a hayrack ride and the big annual project of attending their national convention.

- Row 1: John Clarno, Gayle Bilyeu, Larry Koch, John Schalkaschwill, Richard Cheng, Ronald Kreiling, Gary Weddle, Louis Deardorff.
 Row 2: Stanley Kerker, Eldon Cutler, Jack Gove, William Ranney, James Hardin, William Hoerr, Charles Kreie, Joel Yerby, Herschell Bottrell, Duane Norton.

Society of Automotive Engineers

The enthusiastic members of this club are from all fields of engineering and have the slogan of "Know nothing and do nothing." Supposedly they meet and do something or another, but their little automotive mechinisms must carry them away.

- Row 1: Jack Andres, Gary Weddle, Robert Moorhusen, Herschell Bottrell, Richard Cheng, Ronald Kreiling, Gayle Bilyeu.
 Row 2: Gerald Culberson, Clifford Johnson, James Stout, Herbert Fenske, Joel Yerby, Charles Kreie, Ralph Timmerman.

Joint Engineering Council

The Joint Engineering Council, besides co-ordinating the activities of all the engineering clubs, served as the major propaganda unit for the new engineering building. Forgetting their squabbles over "Who's the best engineer?", this group sponsored the debut of the annual Engineering Ball to prove that engineers don't hibernate all the time.

Row 1: Richard Cheng, Herschell Bottrell, Gayle Bilyeu.

Row 2: Charles Kreie, William Hoerr, John Price, Joseph West, James Stout.

Industrial Engineering Club

The Industrial Engineering Club prides itself in being peculiar in itself, but followed the usual monotonous routine of speakers and movies at their dinner meetings. These boys really travel around, as they field tripped to Chicago and Decatur to view the sights—of industry, of course!

Row 1: Robert Parker, Michael Armstrong, Arlen Dillin.

Row 2: Clarence Moore, John Price, Charles Porth, Herman Lacy.

Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society

Meeting only three times a semester to exchange formulas instead of gossip, the "S.A.A.C.S." sponsored several chemical seminars and a tutoring service for the needy. Their meetings, no doubt, were interesting with commercial chemical speakers, plans for the annual picnic, and a feast of cokes and potato chips in the lab afterwards.

Row 1: Marilyn Jost, George McManis, Eugene Stanley, Robert Lawrence, Carol Jones.

Row 2: Linneaus Dorman, Lynn Black, Thomas Fullick, Robert Burr, Robert Kleiman, Frank Cherven.

Row 3: Dr. B. Singh, Kenneth Fahrenholtz, Thomas Stolki, Rowland Ham, Mr. T. F. Cummings, Dr. Mark Paulson, Stanley Ciesla, Dr. J. H. Shroyer.

Christian Science Organization

The members of the Christian Science Organization met weekly to hold discussions on religious readings. Their projects for the year were to interest new members and to attain a wider knowledge of their beliefs.

Row 1: Audrie Suffield, Mr. Brewster Johnson.

Row 2: Karen Klepfer, Mrs. Mabel Stone, Jacquelyn Hays.

Row 3: Barbara Jurim, Robert Mundelius, Roger Roszell, Douglas Jamieson.

Newman Club

One of the most active religious organizations on campus, the members of Newman Club spent their time in furnishing the new club rooms in the basement of the St. Mark's rectory. Their meetings were well attended by the Roman Catholics at Bradley to enjoy the speakers and, of course, the social gatherings afterwards.

Row 1: Mary Edwards, Sheila Breen, Carolyn Forsberg, Susan Scherer, Beverly Liska, Beverly Golata.

Row 2: Lois Lauter, Irene Mrotz, Constance Carlson, Father William Feeney, Marianne Spanogle, Dolores Chapman, Gracie Sineni, Barbara Marcin.

Row 3: Diane Sommers, Glenda Freres, Alice Watters, Richard Noon, Mary Lou Tomsovic, Paul Volkmen, James Piletic, Virginia Hollenbac, Joanne Regan.

Bradley Christian Fellowship

This non-denominational group met every Thursday evening and had informal daily meetings for prayer and Bible study. Speakers were from various fields of interest on their program. Their only project was attending week-end conferences with other Inter-Varsity Fellowships from colleges in this area.

Row 1: Mary Huey, Mary Kirkpatrick, Edith Okuhara.

Row 2: Judith McKinney, William Dittmer, Gail Brownlow, Martha Wohlschlegel.

Hui O Aikane

Better known as the Hawaiian Club, these students met to conduct their monthly business meetings and perhaps to compare their rare shirts. Some of their members were able to entertain on other club programs with songs and hulas. The majority of them planned their annual Christmas and Easter parties to occupy themselves during vacations.

Row 1: Eleanor Wada, George Tanaka, Audrey Zane, Edith Okuhara.
Row 2: Alipio Criste, Lloyd Yamato, James Sasaki, Paul Fijishiro, Yasutaka Kaya.
Row 3: Winston Shigenaga, Osame Shinozuka, Francis Shoda, Yoshiharu Nakashima, Izumi Matsui, Amador Casupang.

International Club

This club is comprised of Bradley students from all over the world. Their meetings were semi-monthly and they usually had speakers, sometimes members of the group. The "B" Park Pavilion was the scene of their dance. A project was the making of costumed dolls representing other countries.

Row 1: Bered Woldegiorgis, Perciral Roseto, Ock Nim Syn, Mohammed Youssouf, Nancy Washington, Audrey Zane, Shirley Stever, Vasana Minchar, Sunway Kan.
Row 2: Julie Polacek, Makonnen Bekelle, Sang Lee, Donald Lenhausen, Asefa Gabregiorgis, Arnold Wachman, Rassoul Timimi, Malaku Mehrette, Araya Johannes.
Row 3: Yefru Gobeyehu, Patricia Greenbank, Hassan Al-Marayati, Abdull Messihomas, Jay Freres, Stanley Uskavitch, Robert Hammar, Hah Dargue, Ronald Panichi, Dong Kim, Byung Min, Gaylan Hussian.

Hillel Club

After being relatively inactive for two years, the Hillel Club started again with a larger membership. Meetings were held to discuss the Jewish faith, with emphasis on the social, religious and cultural aspects. The focal points of their meetings were talks by local rabbis.

Row 1: Roberta Sosin, Joseph Clayman, Melvin Benovitz.
Row 2: David Michelson, Robert Gamer, Henrietta Cole, Arnold Wachman, Mary Ann Stillman.
Row 3: Melvin Alexander, Ron Gamer, Alan Turow, Mr. S. Bernstein, David Horowitz, Robert Dan, Sam Goldenberg.

English Club

These so-called highbrows of the campus have unusual meetings—invigorating literary discussions with prizes, no less, for the biggest talker. After sponsoring the film "Macbeth", these members looked forward to their annual banquet, but had the most fun on the trip to Chicago to get some culture.

Row 1: Beverly Golata, Shirley Cates, Colleen Gregg, Norma Frank, Suzanne Gregg, Audrie Suffield, Ellen Cox.

Row 2: Sharis Boyd, Barbara Rolfe, Marcia Bass, Beth Pinnell, Norma Gibbs, Rosemary Clinebell, Patricia Przak, Martha Wohlschlegel, Marilyn Park.

Future Teachers of America

Striving to keep off the F.T.A. Honor Roll, this group had many projects. Panel discussions, movies and speakers helped them to improve their methods, which just might have been related to teaching. Encouraging high school students to follow in their paupers' footsteps, the members still found time to attend conventions and try for 100% attendance.

Row 1: Dr. Frank Miller, Susan McConnell, Judith Metz, Norma Frank, Marilee Kessler, Mary Kay Guinan, Barbara Gals, Judith Burke, Barbara Dooley, Annette Martin, Joanne Moravak.

Row 2: Vivian McAtee, Dorothy Scott, Sharis Boyd, Mary Shafer, Marian Riethmiller, Beth Pinnell, Laura Speck, Doris Davie, Patricia Shawgo, Gayle Davis, Martha Wohlschlegel, Mary Huey, Caryl Cordis.

Secretarial Club

These gals exhibited their business abilities by running and managing a rummage sale which provided their only source of income and their project for the year. Their meetings were the usual run-of-the-mill sort with speakers from big industry and a short business session.

Row 1: Ruth Binder, Beverly Liska, Susan Scherer, Janet Wolf.

Row 2: Myrna Laube, Jean Harvel, Miss Sofrona Smith, Carolyn Forsberg, Sheila Davis, Carol Meyer.

Row 3: Shirley Dietz, Doris Thornton, Annette Erickson, Elise Segroves, Elberta Whittaker, Shirley Godwin, Mary Kirkpatrick.

Home Economics Club

The Home Ec. Club is probably the only organized "man-catcher" society on campus. Besides selling taffy apples and repairing the girl swimmers' beautiful tank suits, these future homemakers found time for cooking, sewing, trying out the home management house, doing a yearly project of some sort and presiding over the annual spring fashion show luncheon.

Row 1: Catherine Logan, Kathleen Dooley, Annette Martin, Mary Edwards, Patricia Foster, Dorothy McManus, Alice Crisp, Sally O'Brien.

Row 2: Nancy Ross, Audrie Suffield, Marilyn Sifton, Sharon Gray, Coronella Adams, Constance Lere, Myrna Laube, Marie Swinehart, Patricia Helms, Elizabeth McElwee, Joyce Schlenker, Jean Ladley.

Row 4: Lila Rashid, Mariann Hofstetter, Mary Ann Klima, Anne Brown, Lynne Brian, Marilyn Dimmick, Bonnie Imm, Alice Watters, Ellen Crosell, JoAnne Semlow, Karen Beckmann, Marianne Spanogle, Ramona Kidd, Darlene Prechel.

Advertising and Selling

Although reduced in numbers this year, the Ad and Sell Club still carried on, meeting monthly at Shady Oaks and collecting door prizes donated by Main Street merchants. Meetings were always somewhat socially businesslike with speakers from the fields of commerce to pass out words of advice and warning.

Row 1: Stanley Uskavitch, Gail Reimen, Patricia Raines, Norae Lindeman, Lila Kies, Shirley Tomsic.

Row 2: Richard Vieregg, Claire Stellas, Bonnie Sherwood, Robert Moorhusen, Jean Burnett, Carol Graham, Douglas Jamieson.

Row 3: William Vanbenschoten, James Kirchner, Robins Hawthorne, Donald Bowton, Karen Beckmann, Joseph Danzer, Carolyn Whited, Joseph Brown.

Splash and Dabble

This elusive group seems content to have only their handy work seen on campus. Posters, mobiles and the latest in the art world are the topics for meetings which, luckily, don't include speakers. They, too, are among the happy groups that visit Chicago—they go to the Art Institute, of all places!

Association of Accountancy

All is not searching for knowledge because members of this club socialized at their meetings before dining at the Mecca. Speakers from various fields of accounting held the members' attention, but plans for an alumni newspaper and the outstanding senior award plus their six weeks' training on the job were more important.

Row 1: Carole Rudd, Mr. M. F. Grisafe, Carol Graham, Marie Roecker.

Row 2: Joseph Burdett, James Kirchner, Robert Dan, Paul Kaiser, Brooks Read, Charles Fox.

Beta Tau Epsilon

The main interest of this club is industrial education. Formerly an honorary, the members found their requirements too stiff for any activities. These boys took field trips to industries in the area, watched industrial films, and worked on an unknown project.

Row 1: Lawrence Hahn, Arnold Wachman, Melvin Benovitz.

Row 2: Mr. Robert Huxol, Norman Geyer, Frank Buchert, Paul Rickert.

Row 3: Wilmer Schwank, Delbert Holman, John Spring, Howard Miller, Danny Raber, Glenn Charlson.

Alpha Phi Omega

The A.P.O.'s are a hard working crew of old Boy Scouts. They liked chapels so well that they attended almost all of them and believed that helping friends was an honest duty. They looked forward to their annual banquet with a guest speaker who spoke on foreign places and secretly hoped that they'd never have to build a fire with two sticks.

Row 1: Melvin Luke, George McManis, Mr. E. J. Ritter, Donald Brockman, Michael Armstrong, Edgard Guevara.

Row 2: Robert Maresso, Robins Hawthorne, Stanley Uskavitch, David Dahlstrom, Donald Bussell, James Pawson.

Row 3: Norman Geyer, John Bartos, James Vesterby, Richard Healy, Fred Augspurger, Bruce Gentner, Richard Viereg.

Row 4: Donald Lewis, Philip Mayer, James Speck, Eugene Jennings, Michael Allar, Harrison Foote, Everett McCormick, Richard Hanson, Kenneth Koch.

Young Women's Christian Association

The big undertaking for the year was the annual "Ugly Man Contest" for the campus' most handsome man. Avoiding their own meeting room, the group met on campus to plan projects, some of which never materialized. Carrying out the theme of community service, the members helped a charitable organization, ran the Bradley travel bureau and worked at the downtown "Y".

Row 1: Barbara Gats, Bessie Luster.

Row 2: Carole Mahnke, Lola Lousberry, Diane Coon, Carol Kolley.

Young Men's Christian Association

These are the smiling fellows found behind the coke bar at registration and the high school music contest. Selling Christmas trees for the downtown "Y" and entertaining new freshman males in February kept the group busy. Most of the members found their basketball and volleyball teams good for keeping them in physical trim.

Row 1: David Michelson, Robert Pople.

Row 2: Donald Brockman, Roger Knaggs, John Weyeneth.

Row 3: Roxie Bucklin, Donald Saletski, Clarence Jackman, Kenneth Cornelius.

Veterans' Club

Getting together informally every three or four weeks for a general bull session and a few rounds of cheer, the Vets were quite proud of their increased membership. Their big projects for the year were the Christmas party for orphan children and writing letters to various senators to increase their allowances so they can balance their budgets.

Row 1: Robert Kemnitz, John Lauder, Frank Cherven, John Gibson.

Row 2: Richard Benes, Dwain Hamilton, Warren Cowser, Frederick Tarleton, Thomas Hinrichs, Donald Lenhausen.

Row 3: William Felt, Eldon Woerner, John Giesler, David Roberts, Clark Kuster, Ronald Schlesch, James Flanagan.

ADVERTISING

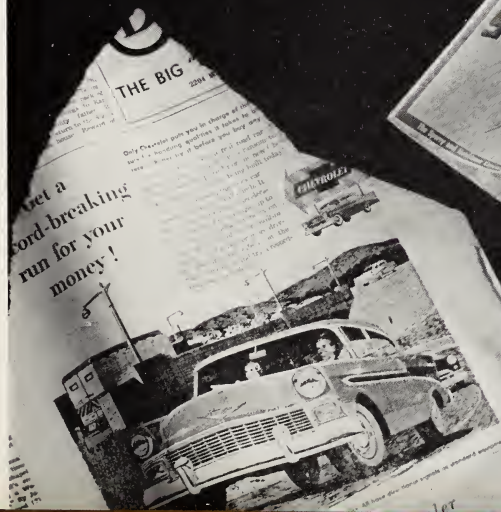

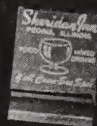

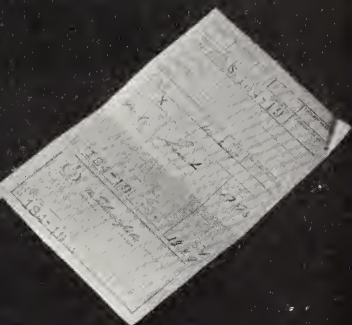

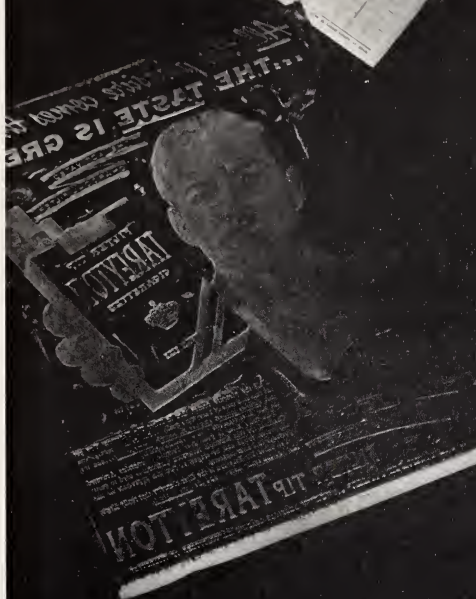

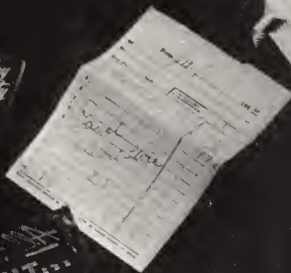

The advertising in this publication represents the faith local businesses have in Bradley University.

It is this support that makes the ANAGA a reality and brings to you the cross-sectional view of another year on the Hilltop.

We believe that these pages will prove their own merit and sincerely hope you will favor them.

Campus and business

NOW it's my turn...

Now, it's my turn to earn my place in our community . . . in our country. Someone before me had his turn . . . someone built the schools I attended . . . someone subscribed to the hospital building fund . . . someone worked on the fund drives for church and charity . . . on Scout committees . . . on the thousand and one civic affairs that weave strength and character into this country of ours.

Someone . . . in fact, many . . . were good citizens before me.

Now, it's my turn to take up the responsibilities of citizenship. I know I will be a good citizen only if I make up my mind to be . . . that I will reap the rewards of good citizenship only if I invest in them . . . that I and millions like me will determine the kind of community and country we will live in. Strong communities mean a strong Nation.

Growing With Peoria and Bradley

The Peoria Journal Star this year completed 100 years of service since its founding in 1855. It has been a century of steady growth, just as Bradley has grown from its status as Bradley Academy back in 1897 to its present place of eminence in the educational world as Bradley University.

From our new plant high on a plateau above the Illinois river we at The Journal Star look to still greater growth. You at Bradley are headed in the same direction.

With the ultimate in modern equipment and facilities at our disposal, we face the future with confidence.

With your expanding facilities and strong leadership, we feel that Bradley's future is equally hopeful.
